Little Hope of Many Alive

33 CANADIAN MINERS PERISH

At Dawson, N. M., an explosion in the Phelps-Dodge mine late yesterday imprisoned 122 men.

Reports from Dawson held out faint hope of recovering alive many of the 122 miners entombed by the explosion there, although two of the workmen walked out of the mine this morning without assistance. Rescue crews brought six bodies to the surface during the night and morning.

In neither case was the cause of the explosion known definitely, but it was believed, in each instance, that coal dust and gas pockets were responsible.

the blast of those who went on duty before the explosion last night and of those who had been accounted for.

CUMBERLAND, B. C., Feb. 9. — (By The Associated Press).—Six badly injured survivors of the explosion which took place at Mine No. 4, in the Canadian Collieries (Dunsmuir) out unassisted. As they neared the mouth of the mine they met a rescue party coming in.

The men, Charles Candale and Filini Martinez, were in the fourth south tier of the property when the terrible blast came. They immediately

Twenty-five bodies had been recovered at noon.

Of the dead, twenty were whites and the remainder Orientals. Rescue parties worked all night

The men were within the mine for nineteen and one-half hours after the explosion, but company officials declared medical examination disclosed no injury had resulted.

tombled by the blast—a forlorn hope for it was apparent almost from the first that few could escape the deadly fumes that rolled along the tunnels. Some of the men were killed outright by the explosion, and tons of debris separated their bodies from the rescue workers.

Fourteen men, all asphyxiated, were found in a group in a remote part of the mine where they apparently had huddled in an effort to escape the fumes in the after-damp.

LONE CHINESE DASHES

Officials doubt story that others are alive.

The two miners declared there were four other miners alive in the vicinity, but some officials declared they thought this statement probably was erroneous.

Candale and Martinez told a dramatic story of how they avoided death in the thick suffocating coal dust that filled the mine after the explosion. They kept from strangling by wotting their sweaters.

The escape of the lone Chinese miner who made his way to the surface was considered almost miraculous. He ran through the tunnels, he hid, and passed men who had collapsed in the sweaters over their faces. The blast that rocked the property came from a portion of the mine near the main shaft, according to the men. It hurried them to the ground. Stunned for several minto assist them but was too weak to help and was forced by the gas fumes to hurry on.

The explosion occurred at 8 o'clock just after the night shift had gotten in. Between 60 and 70 men were reported missing after the explosion.

No hope was held of recovering the bodies of the men who were up and ran down the fourth south side tier of the mine and then stopping in a passageway between two tunnels, they declared. They found the bodies of the men. Removing their sweaters in the miners soaked the garments in the water.

LYING WITH HEADS CLOSE

When the smoke fumes from the explosion started to roll through their passageway the two men stretched full length on the ground with their heads close to the ground. In this way they managed to avoid the fumes for some time. As the smoke cleared quickly, however, when thick smoke focusing coil dust followed the mines with rescue crews declared that ventilation was entirely cut off from the portion of the mine in which those unaccounted for were supposed to be.

The disaster has taken rank as

The explosion threw rocks, concrete slabs and timbers in all directions from the mouth of the mine. On huge slab of concrete was thrown through the wall of the motor house, a one-story wooden structure, 200 feet from the mine. Two mechanics in the building narrowly escaped being struck by clash said this betterment of the fan would make sufficient ventilation for rescue crews to explore all parts of the mine without danger of being overcome.

During last night and early today, four members in the rescue crews have been overcome by the fumes and have had to be carried out of the mine by their comrades. All were resuscitated, however. Many of the rescuers have been struck by falling rock. The walls and ceilings of the tunnels are shaky and the excavating parties frequently are obliged to retrace their steps to clear the tunnels of debris that has fallen behind them.

ENTIRE POPULATION AT HEAD OF SHAFT

Mine number one, a slope coal mine, is located about two miles from the town of Dawson. Reports received here last night said that virtually the entire population of Dawson, one of the largest coal mining camps in the United States, was at the mine and in the excitement prevailed. There are about four miles in the Dawson vicinity and about 5000 persons live in the camp.

The company announced that 140 men checked into the workings yesterday morning but only 122 remained in the mine when the explosion occurred.

The explosion, which occurred at 2:30 o'clock, tore away all of the heavy concrete work at the mouth of the main entry to the mine but did not wreck the fan, according to a company statement, and ventilation soon was established.

The first rescue crew to enter the mine was led by W. D. Brennan, general manager of the mine, as soon as the entrance, which had been blocked by the explosion, could be cleared.

The first men reached were the motor man and nipper, who were only a short distance inside the mine. Both were dead.

The mine was what is commonly termed in this district "a non-gassy" one and was extensively equipped with a sprinkling system. The fire bosses who examined the mine on the night preceding the explosion did not report any unusual conditions in the property. The cause of the explosion has not been determined.

The mine, which was one of the smaller of the eight mines operated here by the Phelps-Dodge Corporation, had a capacity of about 600 tons a day.

TRINIDAD, Colo., Feb. 9.—(United Press.)—At least two men have survived the explosion in Phelps-Dodge Dawson mine No. 1, at Dawson, N. M., in which 122 miners were imprisoned, according to word received here at 10 a. m. today.

The two survivors said the blast wrecked the interior of the mine. At 10 o'clock six bodies had been brought to the surface and four had been identified as:

A. J. English.
A. J. English Jr.
Sam Tula.

NUMBER OF DEAD LOCATED BY WORKERS.

Rescue workers who brought the bodies to the surface said they had located a number of dead far back in the mine, but did not estimate the exact figure.

A consignment of 26 coffins was due to arrive here before noon from Denver. A number of other caskets are en route.

The mine is owned by the Phelps-Dodge corporation, which operates in this section and which employs a total of 4000 men.

Witnesses of Dawson, with the shadow of a mine tragedy ever hovering over them, calmly bore their sorrow today. Stunned by the disaster, there were few hysterics among the waiting wives and daughters as they continued their vigil throughout the bitter cold night, huddled in groups about small fires kindled near the mine. Occasionally the low monotone of their scant conversation would be broken by loud sobbing of one whose nerves no longer could stand the strain of waiting vainly for some word of the fate of a relative.

But on the whole, Dawson took its grief without any outward display of emotion. Scores of miners with faces set assisted rescue workers as the bodies of four victims recovered so far were brought to the surface. Questioned as to the chances of getting the others out alive, they only shook their heads dubiously.

As soon as word of the disaster spread, scores of sightseers rushed to Dawson in automobiles from towns in a radius of 50 miles, and a cordon of guards was thrown around the property to prevent them from crowding the entrance and hampering the work of the rescuers. Physicians and undertakers from outside were brought in to be on hand when the injured and dead were taken from the shaft.

An investigation into the cause of the explosion probably will be begun at once. The force of the blast was terrific. The town of Dawson was shaken and timbers at the mine entrance were hurled into the air and the passageway choked away before rescuers could enter. These, however, were progressing rapidly this morning, according to word sent to the surface, and little difficulty was encountered in forging ahead through the lower levels of the mine. Clearing away of debris and wreckage in the main passageways caused the only delay.

DAWSON, N. M., Feb. 9.—(By International News Service.)—Despite the gleam of hope aroused by the escape of two of the 122 miners imprisoned in mine No. 1 of the Phelps-Dodge Corporation, where a terrific explosion occurred late yesterday, company officials expressed the belief that there was very little chance for many of the 113 entombed miners to survive the gas-laden chambers of the mine. W. D. Brennan, general manager, said after an inspection during the forenoon, that conditions underground were "very bad" and "probably all of the men are dead."

Because of the huge piles of debris and the deadly gas fumes, work of the rescuers is badly hampered and at noon they had penetrated only a mile and a quarter into the mine. It was believed the actual explosion occurred nearly a mile further on. Brennan said the rescue work would probably be prolonged several days.

Telegraph and telephone wires leading from the mine to Dawson were torn down by the blast and word of the disaster did not reach the outside world for more than two hours.

Shocked, Saddened, Mine Chief Says

DOUGLAS, Ariz., Feb. 9.—(By the Associated Press.)—"The Phelps-Dodge corporation is terribly shocked and saddened this morning at the explosion which occurred yesterday in the No. 1 mine at Dawson, and at what apparently will be a deplorable loss of life," said a statement issued here today by P. G. Beckett, general manager of the Phelps-Dodge corporation. "It has always been the aim of the Phelps-Dodge corporation to make their mines as safe as it is humanly possible to make them," Beckett declared. "The safety of its workmen comes before everything else in all our operations. Therefore the company is particularly shocked and grieved over the disaster of yesterday and its sympathies go out to the families and loved ones of all those who have lost their lives."

"It is unknown at present what caused the explosion but as soon as the work of rescue is completed every effort will be made to trace the actual cause."

Aid Experts Speed On Special Trains

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(By International News Service.)—Expert engineers of the United States bureau of mines are speeding toward Dawson, N. M., today on special trains made up at Hanna, Wyo., and Tucson, Ariz., according to advices to officials here. The trains are equipped with special engines and are expected to arrive at Dawson during the day, covering a distance of approximately 500 miles.

The bureau of mine engineers will take charge of the rescue work as soon as they arrive at the scene.

MINE CHIEF IN BERKELEY SPEEDS UP AID CREWS.

He said the Denver office would control the sending of rescue cars to Dawson as a result of yesterday's explosion.

Pickard also telegraphed the men in charge of the car to get from Ajo, which is some 60 miles below Gila Bend, on a branch line running from the Southern Pacific

Mrs. Barker and the Turk boy were killed with an ax and Barker was shot.

Death Toll of 261 In Blast in 1913

DENVER, Colo., Feb. 9.—(By the Associated Press.)—Yesterday's mine disaster is the second in a decade experienced by the Little mining town of Dawson, New Mexico.

Entrapped in a tunnel of the Stag Canon coal mine number two, also owned by the Phelps-Dodge corporation, which was mine number one, where yesterday's explosion occurred, on Tuesday afternoon, October 21, 1913, by a terrific explosion, 261 miners lost their lives before rescue crews could reach them, and 600 rescuers were killed by the fatal gases as they sought to reach their comrades in the fume-filled death chambers underground.

Twenty-three men—all but six of whom were in a distant portion of the mine when the fierce blast wrecked the interior workings—were all who survived.

Dawson is one of the largest coal mining camps in the United States. Four mines are operated at that place, the total population of the camp numbering about 5000.

Shortly prior to the disaster of 1913 in the Stag Canon mine, the company spent nearly half a million dollars on improvements to the workings, and the property was known as one of the most modern and completely equipped workings in the country.

STATEMENTS TELL CAMPAIGN COSTS

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 9.—A total of $154,427 was reported in the statements of campaign expenditures for the primary and general elections, led by Secretary of State Frank C. Whiting, his opponent, admitted spending $1400. United States Senator Hiram W. Johnson's expenditures for the primary campaign were stated as $2750 and his opponent, Charles C. Moore, admitted spending $3136. Edward Winterer, who was defeated for the state senate in the 24th senatorial district, spent $240 more than his salary would have been for the four-year term.

The data was prepared by State Statistician Charles Haggerty at the instance of the special legislative committee investigating campaign expenditures.

BISHOP URGES CUT IN DIOCESE

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 9.—Division of the San Francisco area of the Methodist Episcopal church and the appointment of a new bishop were suggested by Bishop Adna Wright Leonard of San Francisco, in an address before 300 delegates to the annual area council which opened here yesterday.

"I intend to bring this proposition before the general conference in May," said Bishop Leonard. "In my opinion, this area should be divided into two directions, one comprising northern California, Nevada and Hawaii, and the other Southern California, Arizona, the Lower California peninsula and a part of New Mexico."

Bishop Leonard said there were 300,000 Methodists in this area and the growth of membership and church work had become so heavy that affirmative action on his suggestion was essential.

Other speakers included Bishop W. O. Shepard of Portland, Ore., of the Northwest Conference and head of the Latin-American Mission, and Dr. M. W. Ehnes.

Mare Island Log Written By Farragut, Discovered

VALLEJO, Feb. 9.—Setting forth the official beginning of the Mare Island Navy Yard, the handwriting of the "old sea dog" himself, the log of Admiral D. G. Farragut, hero of the battle of Mobile Bay, "goes ahead," sounded the death knell of the Confederate navy and resulted in the capture of Mobile, has been discovered here.

The records and correspondence of the historic seaman, who is one of the greatest heroes of the United States Navy, were taken from an old cabinet in a basement room at the Mare Island Navy Yard yesterday by Admiral McKean, commander, following their discovery. They were said today by historians prominent in the state to be of great importance.

The papers deal with the time—back in the days of 1854—when Farragut, then a commander, was the first officer of the Mare Island Navy Yard.

VIGILANTE LETTERS.
The documents are in an excellent state of preservation, and their being at least brought to light causes a thrill among California and the nation's historians. The following items have so far been rescued from long forgotten archives:

A letter written by William T. Coleman, president of the Vigilantes; a letter written by "32" Secretary, the famous executive of the Vigilantes; a letter written by L. D. Farrell and Charles L. Case of the Vigilantes' executive committee; letters between Admiral Farragut and Commander E. B. Boutwell, commander of the U. S. S. John Adams, referring to the rumor that the John Adams was ready to fire on San Francisco if the Vigilantes refused to release Judge Terry of the supreme court; Farragut's personal summary of the conflict between the Vigilantes and the Law and Order Committee as he reported it to Secretary of the Navy J. C. Dobbins.

The actual discovery of the lost papers was made by Chief Clerk W. J. Diamond, who was making a search of one of the navy yard's old storerooms. He reported it to Admiral McKean and the documents were carefully removed and preserved in detail by the commandant. The room in which the log and correspondence had been stored had become over-crowded and it was thought that there might be some old material which had become valueless with the passing of time.

In one basement corner the janitor had piled broken furniture and worn-out office equipment. Behind all this debris was a cabinet, old and crumbling. It was this receptacle that in days gone by had been chosen by the great admiral as his personal filing case.

The first entry in the log book of Mare Island was:

Sept. 16, 1854.
"Commander D. G. Farragut took command of the island this day and forthwith ordered all the quarters, viz: Turner, Ray, Vera, Gilbert and Antonio Pinto. Weather very fine but warm. Thermometer 86."

HANGINGS WITNESSED.
The log is concerned chiefly with the business of the day department, but on May 2, 1855, Farragut made an entry telling of a visit he made to San Francisco to witness the hanging of Cora and Casey and to attend the funeral of James King of William. He left San Francisco at 5:30 p. m. that day, according to his log, and arrived at Mare Island at 2 p. m. That day also brought the arrival of the John Adams from Honolulu.

Commander Boutwell of the John Adams wrote the following letter to the Vigilance Committee: "You are either in open rebellion against the laws of your country and in a state of war, or you are an association of American citizens combined together for the purpose of redressing an evil, real or imaginary, under a suspension of the laws of California. If it is the one, request that you deal with Judge Terry as a prisoner of war and place him on board my ship; or if it is the other, that you surrender him to the lawful authorities of the state."

The above letter caused great excitement and brought the following reply from Admiral Farragut, a copy of which was found in the file: "I would not have interfered had you not written a letter to the committee which induced the idea that it was your intention to fire on the city. Such action would result in most certain immortality to Judge Terry, whose life, I think, would pay the forfeit at the very first gun. Your course may be more approved than mine; if so, be assured my eye will not be evil because you have proved to be right."

Another letter written by Farragut to the gunboat's commander follows: "I feel no disposition to interfere with your command, but so long as you are within waters of my command it becomes my duty to restrain you from doing anything to augment the very great excitement in this distracted community."

In the newly discovered log and correspondence of Admiral Farragut there are many other items which will be of manifold interest to historians. What will be done with the documents has not yet been decided.

PROSECUTOR SHAY DEFIES COLLAPSE

Although stricken during a criminal trial yesterday with what physicians pronounced a nervous breakdown caused by overwork, Assistant District Attorney Frank Shay returned to his duties today because, he declared, the criminal calendar is too crowded to permit him to take a rest at this time.

Shay was taken ill during the afternoon session of the burglary trial of John Dorney and Thomas Walsh yesterday. He was taken to his home by Superior Judge H. D. Burroughs.

Dr. O. D. Hamlin diagnosed Shay's collapse as a nervous breakdown resulting from a long period of overwork, and ordered Shay to remain at home for at least a week. Disregarding his physician's instructions, Shay went to the court house at his usual hour this morning, and resumed his work in the Walsh and Dorney trial.

"I'll have three days to rest up in—Saturday, Sunday and Monday," Shay said this morning. "But I'll have to do for the present. There's too much on the criminal calendar for me to leave just now."

Superior Judge T. W. Harris, presiding judge of the local Superior bench, today expressed the opinion that Shay's work during the past nine weeks has been enough to break down any man in the county.

YOUNG ARTIST PLANS FIRST PUBLIC APPEARANCE

"Oh, Alice, I just heard of the most wonderful thing. Mr. Rothchild, of the California and Granada theaters, is allowing beginning in a new act, singing songs and try out their voices. I am so excited I don't know my name."

"That is terribly interesting, my dear. You will probably be singing some time soon before a Granada or California audience."

"Oh, I hope so. That really is a wonderful thing for Mr. Rothchild to do. You know a young musician has such a terrible time before he or she can appear before an audience and get recognition. This way one doesn't have to hire an auditorium, have printing done and a lot of other expensive things. The attitude of the large Granada and California audiences toward an entertainer would mean a lot, too. One could tell how near perfection they are by the applause or lack of applause."

"When are you going to sing?" "Oh, I don't know. One has to try out for the Discovery concert on Tuesdays, and I will be there next Tuesday. If I am accepted I don't know what I shall ever do for a dress. I haven't a thing suitable to wear in front of a large audience."

"Oh, but, my dear, that is important. Need not be expensive, but you must have something attractive and becoming. I have what! There is a reduction sale in misses' dresses at Cherry's, and you can buy there on credit, too, with six months to pay, it is necessary. And their dresses are darling." Sixteen dresses were available for sale at 50 cents each.

The store for misses is at 525 13th Street—Advertisement.

ASSOCIATION TO SUCCEED BOARD

The Industrial Relations Board of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce, having come into existence as an emergency measure during the Building Trades' strike in the summer of 1921, will not retire, it is announced by Harrison S. Robinson, president of the Chamber. The place of the board will be taken by a new organization, the Eastbay Industrial Association, which has opened offices at 302-3 Syndicate building, Oakland, and the committee of which consists of W. W. Johnson, president of the Union Construction Company; E. M. Tilden, president of the Hogan Lumber Company; L. C. Fraser, of Spangler and Fraser, and E. W. Olin, formerly manager of the Industrial Relations Board, as secretary, and a board of twelve directors.

According to President Robinson of the Chamber of Commerce, "the association has taken over the entire personnel of the Industrial Relations Board, and has been in active operation since January 1 of this year. It will continue to operate on the same broad general policies that governed the old board."

In a review of the achievements of the Industrial Relations Board of the Chamber of Commerce, which has now gone out of existence, Robinson says in part: "The board has sponsored a plasterers' school, which has turned out 74 boys, thereby materially relieving a shortage in this craft that at one time threatened to seriously

St. Joseph's Parish Arranges Card Party

Members of St. Joseph's parish are in readiness today for the card party which is to be held tonight in St. Joseph's auditorium at Jefferson and McGee streets. The affair will impede our building program. It has also maintained an employment office which, during 1922, furnished employment to 9405 men."

Quick Quaker Oats make them possible

Now your oat dish can be ready in five minutes, if you wish. There is a Quick Quaker Oats which cooks in 3 to 5 minutes.

It is just like the Quaker Oats you know in quality and flavor. It is flaked from quern grains only—just the rich, plump, savory oats. We get but ten pounds from a bushel.

But the oats are cut before flaking. They are rolled very thin and partly cooked. So the flakes are smaller and thinner—that is all. And the small thin flakes cook quickly.

Your grocer has both styles. If you want the Quick Quaker look for "Quick" on the label. You will get the quickest cooking oats in the world.

GERMANS SPEED SHIP BUILDING

LONDON, Feb. 9.—Germany has beaten her pre-war shipbuilding record, according to figures published here. Her output in 1922 was 625,000 tons, as compared with 565,000 tons in 1921, 440,000 tons in 1920 and 465,000 tons in 1919. The German shipbuilding industry does not seem to have suffered from the general depression and, owing to the low cost of production, it apparently has become a formidable competitor to the industry in the United States and Great Britain.

COCHET PLAYING HOCKEY TO GAIN TENNIS STRENGTH

Faster Service Is Main Thing
Needed by No. 1 Player of France.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland, Feb. 9.—Henri Cochet, the young French Davis Cup star and official ranking No. 1 player of France, is also an ice hockey player of no mean ability, who might hold his own with the best amateur players in New York or Montreal. He is spending the winter here, excepting for a short trip to Barcelona, where he will take part in the covered courts championships.

Cochet and Frank O'Neill, of St. Louis, leading jockeys of the French turf, are inseparable companions. Matt MacGee, of Sheephead Bay, another prominent jockey in France, joined them about New Year and Cochet has been giving the two horsemen a few tips in ice hockey. Cochet says that if O'Neill and MacGee will retellate with a few winning tips during the French racing season next summer, he will consider himself amply repaid.

Cochet has not touched a racquet since the Franco-Italian match last September. He told O'Neill the other day that he was trying to develop more speed and jump to his service, which has always been the weak spot in his tennis game. He claims that shooting a frozen rubber puck with a heavy hockey stick about one hundred times a day will give him the service he needs to make the ball spin like a slasher bullet when he resumes tennis.

The trip to America did the young Frenchman a world of good. He was much impressed by "Little Bill" Johnston's game. "They say I am too small ever to make a real champion," Cochet declared the other day, "but look at Little Bill. He is not bigger than I am. I'll have to acquire a service like his before I can meddle with those American players."

Move to Prevent Killing of Birds

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—A stronger movement to prevent the slaughter of birds has been launched by the Michigan Audubon Society with the organization of a crime prevention committee. It became known today, Attorney Joe Beatty Buitt of Chicago, credited with being the original advocate of "game" Fourth of July in Chicago, has accepted the chairmanship of the new committee as well as the chairmanship of the outdoor exhibit of bird houses to be established by the Michigan society on the West Michigan pier.

"The first work of this crime prevention committee should be to help break the gun toter's conspiracy against our fowl," the birds," said Mr. Buitt in notifying Mrs. Edith C. Munger of Hart, Mich., president of the Michigan Audubon Society, of his acceptance.

A Timely Offer of a Hartmann Wardrobe At a Medium Price

Confidence

The very nature of trunk and traveling equipment construction, where so much that makes for durability and satisfaction is necessarily hidden from view, requires the buyer to place the greatest confidence in the store he patronizes. And it imposes on the store the obligation of making absolutely truthful, uncolored statements about the merchandise it offers.

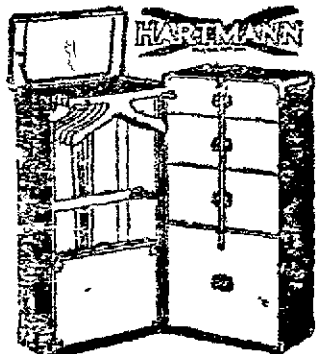

For this reason it has been a policy of this store, during the years of its existence, to let it play, rather than overemphasize, the features of its merchandise—in both its advertising and personal selling.

Confidence in our store and in the quality of our merchandise has been built on just such 'seasoned' words of praise and commendation as this Hartmann Wardrobe trunk represents. We are glad to be able to present it at such a low figure, including, as it does, all the exclusive Hartmann features popularly in demand.

It is a full-size Gibraltar Hartmann with cushion top, which absolutely prevents clothes wrinkling, hat box, shoe box, locking bar, partitions in drawers, and clothes hangers.

This is a very popular model, among our Hartmann Wardrobes. We will be glad to show it, or any other model, to you at any time, giving you prices, etc., whether you are purchasing or not.

HUNTERS SCOUR RANGES IN AUTO TO GET RABBITS

DELHI, Feb. 9.—The latest sport is hunting the long-eared jackrabbit by auto, spotlight and shotgun. Local ranchers are reducing the number of the long-eared pests by the dozen these quiet nights. They ride out in the open country and stir up the rabbits which become dazed by the strong spotlights, and stop long enough for the hunter to bring them down. A few nights ago Oscar Shattuck, Henry Said, Lloyd and Harlow Brown bagged forty in an hour in this manner.

Compulsory School Laws Are Advocated

TOKYO, Feb. 8.—Dr. Kenjiro Yamakawa, former president of the Tokyo Imperial university and a member of the House of Peers, is opposed to the promotion of higher schools to the university rank. He believes that compulsory education, rather than improvement of educational arrangements, is the crying need of the country.

Senator Caught Two Times for Speeding

COLUMBIA, Feb. 8.—Speedometer V. Forsythe of Williams, arrested Senator Dozier of Red Bluff twice in less than half an hour recently. Dozier, the officer says, was making fifty-one miles an hour near Arbuckle. Dozier was indignant when Forsythe stopped him and refused to sign a card.

Later Dozier was induced to go to the judge at Williams. Forsythe trailed him again and arrested him again. According to the charges, the senator this time was also making fifty-one miles an hour. Dozier was allowed to go on to his home while the judge was deciding on a speeding charge.

TEXAS PRISONER SAYS HE KILLED EIGHT IN YEAR

Series of Waco Crimes Are Cleared by Confession Made in Jail.

WACO, Texas, Feb. 8.—Local police and the Waco national guardsmen were being mobilized this afternoon to defend the county all in event an attempt is made to get Roy Mitchell, negro, alleged confessor to eight murders, when rumors of the forming of a mob reached the officers.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS. LEADERS WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

WACO, Tex., Feb. 8.—A series of crimes which have baffled officers here for the past year were cleared today by the alleged confession of Roy Mitchell, negro, to having committed eight murders, three assaults on women from February 12, 1932, to January 19, 1933, according to Sheriff Leslie Stegall and County Attorney C. S. Farmer.

The slayings said to have been confessed to by Mitchell follow:

Murder of W. H. Barker and his wife and Homer Turk at Concord, February 12, 1932.

W. P. Delsoell, May 7, 1932.

Harrell Bolton, May 25, 1932.

Grady Stipworth, November 20, 1932.

W. E. Holt and Mrs. Ethel Deno camp, January 19, 1933.

THREE WOMEN ATTACKED.

Three women were attacked after their escorts were killed, two of the women having been subjected to two attacks, according to the alleged confession.

The confession was made to the sheriff and county prosecutor last night, put in writing and signed by Mitchell.

Two negroes were tried and convicted for the slaying of Mr. and Mrs. Barker and Turk, the killing of whom Mitchell confessed. One of these negroes, Cooper Johnson, was given the death penalty, and the other, Bennie Young, life imprisonment. Their cases are now on appeal.

Another negro has been killed for a crime to which Mitchell is said to have confessed.

WRONG NEGRO BURNED.

When Harrell Bolton was killed, his girl companion was attacked. A negro was later identified by the young woman and was shot by the girl's father. A mob then burned his body.

On May 17, 1932, Mitchell confessed, he shot a man and woman who were driving in Cameron park, but was frightened away and both recovered. Early in January, 1933, he held up a negro couple in South Waco, forced the man to leave the car and driving to a secluded spot, attacked the woman.

Mitchell said he was hidden behind a pavilion when Grady Stipworth and a young woman drove up near Lover's Leap on November 20. He said he waited a few minutes, then went around back of the car as Stipworth got out on the ground. He shot and killed the boy and dragged his body to the cliff and threw it over. He said he then attacked the girl. He says he did not throw her off the cliff, as the girl has claimed, but that she ran off trying to escape.

WOMAN SHOT TO DEATH.

Mitchell said he saw Holt and Mrs. Deno camp drive out into a cross road on the night of January 19 and followed them. When he came upon them, he shot Holt and, entering the car, drove to the spot where both ladies were found, and after attacking the woman twice, shot her to death. He drove to town, but thinking that he had best go back and conceal the body of Holt, drove back to the scene of the first attack.

Called Oakland's Greatest Need

"In 1922, we built 100,000 new homes in the United States and issued 1,250,000 marriage licenses," said Guy W. Wolf, manager of the retail merchants' department of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce, in an address before the Y. M. C. A. Home Ownership Forum at the Y. M. C. A. building last evening.

"During the last four years, more than 5,000,000 couples have been married in our country, and we have built less than 250,000 new homes to house them."

"In 1870, for every 100 homes in the United States, there were 101 families. In 1922, there were 125 families living in every 100 homes. The United States today is short nearly 4,000,000 homes and the housing problem is the most acute of that of any civilized country."

"In 1922, 5503 new families moved to Oakland and 2000 weddings took place, giving Oakland a total increase of over 7500 new families. To meet this increase in population, we built only 2975 homes."

"The future of Oakland as a great industrial city and, as a residence city depends upon our working out some plan of increasing the construction of homes to take care of the increase in population."

Wolf declared that the East-bay hills, reaching from Hayward to Richmond, comprise the last great undeveloped residence district on the Pacific coast.

In co-operation with the Chamber of Commerce, the Builders' Exchange, the Realty Board and other civic organizations, the Y. M. C. A. is conducting a sixteen weeks' weekly forum study in home ownership. The meetings each week will be addressed by some recognized authority in the various aspects of construction and financing of homes, landscape gardening, interior decorating and architecture.

He said he then attacked the girl. He says he did not throw her off the cliff, as the girl has claimed, but that she ran off trying to escape.

WOMAN SHOT TO DEATH.

Mitchell said he saw Holt and Mrs. Deno camp drive out into a cross road on the night of January 19 and followed them. When he came upon them, he shot Holt and, entering the car, drove to the spot where both ladies were found, and after attacking the woman twice, shot her to death. He drove to town, but thinking that he had best go back and conceal the body of Holt, drove back to the scene of the first attack.

IRISH AND DEACE IRELAND IRLAND AGAIN DELAYED BY IRREGULARS

Rebels Decline to Enter Into Negotiations; Cosgrave Seeks British Aid.

LONDON, Feb. 9 (By the Associated Press).—The Irish rebels have declined to enter into peace negotiations, according to a press association despatch from Dublin.

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE LEADERS WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

DUBLIN, Feb. 9.—The entire Irish situation took a sharp turn today when a statement signed by Liam Deasy, chief of staff of the republican irregulars, was issued, urging the republicans to lay down their arms, but under protest.

Later the authenticity of the statement was questioned, and it was attributed to a faction of the republicans hostile to Deasy. Friends said that the statement was written on January 29 and had been in the hands of rebel leaders since that date.

President Cosgrave of the Dail Eireann, head of the Irish Free State government, was reported in London today on a mission closely linked with Irish peace negotiations.

The Deasy statement said in part:

"I thought it best to advise my comrades to agree to terms (Free State terms) rather than prolong the conflict. By ending the struggle now we await a more favorable opportunity to renew it with a common foe."

It was reported that President Cosgrave was accompanied to London by Hugh Kennedy, legal adviser of the Free State government, and Kevin O'Higgins, home secretary.

Large numbers of irregular guerrillas in the northern part of County Cork was reported to be surrendering their arms.

Free State military officials said they had received word that irregular bands were breaking up, and that many fighters were returning to their homes. Reports of train wrecking continue to arrive. In some districts the irregulars are confining their activities to wrecking trains.

By DAVID M. CHURCH. International News Service Staff Correspondent.

LONDON, Feb. 9.—Heavily guarded to prevent assassination, William T. Cosgrave, president of the Dail Eireann and head of the Irish Free State government, arrived from Dublin today to discuss Irish conditions with the British cabinet. He conferred first with Premier A. Bonar Law and later with the Duke of Devonshire, secretary for the colonies. A cabinet council was summoned to confer upon Cosgrave's request.

U. S. CONGRESSMAN, DIES IN SOUTH

Funeral of Representative
From 10th District Set for Monday.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 9.—Major funeral services will be held Monday afternoon for Capt. Henry M. Osborne, congressman from the 10th California district, who died at his home here yesterday after a lingering illness. Los Angeles Commandery No. 9 will have charge of the services.

It is expected that Governor Richardson will issue a call for a special election to choose a successor to Captain Osborne, who was re-elected last November to a full two-year term beginning March 4.

Captain Osborne's death was the result of an illness which caused him to leave Washington several weeks ago. He returned two days ago that he was near death, and at that time said goodbye to members of his family and sent farewell messages to his closest friends. He is survived by a widow, four sons and a daughter.

Complications accompanying a disorder of the heart caused his death, his physicians stated.

NATIVE OF NEW YORK.

Born in New Lebanon, N. Y., October 4, 1848, Osborne entered the printing trade as an apprentice at the age of 13. At 16 he enlisted as a private in the Civil war. After the war Osborne worked as a printer in several Eastern and Southern cities, later becoming a correspondent of the Chicago Tribune and, in 1878, came to California to establish a newspaper at Bodie.

In 1884 he came to Los Angeles where he edited and published the Los Angeles Evening Express until 1887, and participated in organizing and conducting many of the civic, social and commercial organizations of the city.

MANY HONORS GAINED.

Official positions held by Osborne during his residence in California were as follows: United States Representative from Public Money, Bodie; United States Collector of Customs, Los Angeles; United States Marshal, Los Angeles; Commissioner of Board of Public Works, Los Angeles; delegate from California to Republican national convention in 1888; representative from California on Republican national committee for four terms of two years each; elected to Congress as Republican in 1916, and re-elected in 1918, 1920 and 1922.

Root is a graduate of the Grass Valley schools and attended the University of California and the Mackay School of Mining in Nevada. He has spent several years in Alaska and was for three years superintendent of the Mexican Candelaria mines in Mexico.

Budget Sufficient, Says Commissioner

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 9.—The State Corporation Department will not be crippled nor will its branches in San Francisco and Los Angeles be abolished under the provisions of the budget submitted to the legislature by Governor Richardson, declared Edwin M. Daugherty, corporation commissioner, who was here yesterday.

The budget provides that each employer shall insure his employees against accident. A concern may take out this insurance with the state or with private companies.

The English system of social insurance was described briefly by the speaker. She declared that England has a social insurance twenty years before it was adopted by America. "In England," Dr. Grimes said, "for each day a man works a certain percentage is held out from his salary, the employer contributes a definite amount and the state adds its share to a pool from which the worker is able to draw when he is sick, the victim of an accident or unemployed."

"More than 1,000,000 people received weekly benefits from this fund in England during 1918," declared the speaker. "This is infinitely superior to the bread line or to charity drives. You don't have to worry about drives to support the unemployed, for a reserve fund is built up, from which funds can be drawn in time of need. The part social insurance expects to play is not a substitute for wages, but rather to make a living wage adequate in every sense of the word."

"If we are going to expend public money, the best thing to do is to keep people out of the state of destitution, rather than let them go back to poverty and then attempt to aid them," Dr. Grimes told her audience.

"We insist that people maintain a certain standard of living," she declared. "People are going down to the destitution level and each year we expect to spend more and more to bring them back to the place where we want them to live."

Dr. Grimes explained how social insurance plays a part in keeping people on the American standard of living. She said that social insurance has a pooling fund contributed to by each member of the community to aid wage earners when sickness, accident or unemployment makes it impossible for them to work. Social insurance in California she declared, takes the form of the workers' compensation law, which was here yesterday.

Wisdom of Preventing Destitution Pointed Out to Rotary Club.

Urging the establishment of some sort of system of social insurance, similar to the type already in effect in England, as a means of avoiding poverty instead of charity devices, Dr. Barbara Grimes, instructor in the department of social economics at the University of California, addressed members of the Rotary club at their weekly luncheon at the Hotel Oakland, Dr. Grimes is a graduate of the University of California law school and formerly was secretary of the state insurance commission.

Yacht Trophy Punch Bowl Goes Cheap

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—A silver punch bowl and 11 tankards, a part of Thomas W. Lawson's valued collection, was bought by H. W. Cornell yesterday at auction for $1500, although the set was designed at a cost of $10,000. The set was intended as a trophy for a proposed yacht race with Sir Thomas Lipton's boat, which failed to take place after Lawson had built a defender costing $800,000.

"We insist that people maintain a certain standard of living," she declared. "People are going down to the destitution level and each year we expect to spend more and more to bring them back to the place where we want them to live."

Dr. Grimes explained how social insurance plays a part in keeping people on the American standard of living. She said that social insurance has a pooling fund contributed to by each member of the community to aid wage earners when sickness, accident or unemployment makes it impossible for them to work. Social insurance in California she declared, takes the form of the workers' compensation law, which was here yesterday.

The budget provides that each employer shall insure his employees against accident. A concern may take out this insurance with the state or with private companies.

The English system of social insurance was described briefly by the speaker. She declared that England has a social insurance twenty years before it was adopted by America. "In England," Dr. Grimes said, "for each day a man works a certain percentage is held out from his salary, the employer contributes a definite amount and the state adds its share to a pool from which the worker is able to draw when he is sick, the victim of an accident or unemployed."

"More than 1,000,000 people received weekly benefits from this fund in England during 1918," declared the speaker. "This is infinitely superior to the bread line or to charity drives. You don't have to worry about drives to support the unemployed, for a reserve fund is built up, from which funds can be drawn in time of need. The part social insurance expects to play is not a substitute for wages, but rather to make a living wage adequate in every sense of the word."

"If we are going to expend public money, the best thing to do is to keep people out of the state of destitution, rather than let them go back to poverty and then attempt to aid them," Dr. Grimes told her audience.

Club Leaders Of Oakland Will Go to Tracy

By EDNA B. KINARD.
Local clubwomen will have an important place in the program of the San Joaquin County Federation of Women's Clubs, meeting tomorrow at Tracy, Mrs. George Allen Rigg of Oakland, president of the county district C. F. W. C. of which the group is a part, will share with Mrs. W. A. Fitzgerald, state president in the honors of the day. Both club leaders will review the program of activities which they are eager to complete before retirement from office this summer.

Mrs. Bradford S. Woodbridge, assemblywoman from Roseville, and B. S. Crittenden, assemblyman, are scheduled as the principal speakers of the day. The morning session will be given over to reports of department chairman, and such business must come before the organization.

Mrs. A. E. Pryor of Stockton, Mrs. W. S. Montgomery of Lockeford, and Mrs. O. S. Newman of Lodi, have arranged the program. Mrs. D. O. Castle is the county federation president. Women throughout Alameda district holding similar office have been invited to be special guests of the day by Mrs. Castle.

The Tracy Woman's Club will host the conference of several hundred women.

"Mother" Drake, whose 83 years have not forbidden her the activities of the Oakland Women's Rowing Club during the past five years, is leaving the city, planning to make her home in San Anselmo with her son, J. E. Drake. Her last voyage on Lake Merritt was made this week, following which the members made her the guest of honor at a prettily planned luncheon in the boat house. Covers were laid for twenty-two. Mrs. Drake contributed to the program with a Virginia reel, to an accordion accompaniment. A shower of carnations and a club pin were given her in token of the years during which she has been an honorary member of the Rowing Club. The presentation was made by Miss Ruth Findlay.

Merriam to Sonoma, that historical town which witnessed so interesting a chapter in the early story of the state, is being planned by the California history and landmarks section of Rock Ridge Women's Club for next month. The students of the state lore will make the trip by automobile, and give an entire day over to inspection of the mission, the early army barracks, the jail, the homes of the famous old pioneers and the town square. A picnic luncheon will be arranged.

A dance and card party is announced for Saturday evening, February 17, by the ways and means committee of the club. Mrs. D. C. Scoggins was this week appointed chairman to succeed Mrs. Helena Gamble, resigned.

Affiliation with the Alameda County Federation of Women's Clubs is contemplated by the Fruit-hill Boulevard Community Club. This organization of women residing in the Eastbay is devoting itself at the fortnightly programs to consideration of community and public affairs along educational, civic, philanthropic and social lines. The officers are: President, Mrs. William Dolan; vice-presidents, Mrs. F. F. Morse, Mrs. William R. Barnes; recording secretary, Mrs. S. C. Fletcher; treasurer, Mrs. H. Pollard.

Mrs. George Sorenson and Mrs. William R. Barnes were luncheon hostesses to the club on Tuesday, entertaining at the residence of Mrs. Sorenson. Mrs. F. F. Morse presided as chairman of the business meeting which followed.

Sigma Phi Sigma Mothers' Club will resume meetings for this semester Wednesday at the new fraternity house, 2312 Warring street. A business session will precede an informal tea.

Mrs. Russell Lowry will entertain the Hill Club at her home in Vernon street Monday. Mrs. A. L. Scott was the principal speaker before the half hundred members of this week, taking the Taj Mahal of India as her subject. Original verses and an original story were read by Mrs. Madison Ferris and Mrs. C. E. Hooper. Miss Jean Allen contributed piano numbers. Mrs. J. P. Garlick was the day's hostess.

Mid-morning lunches are being served daily to 173 students in Jefferson school under the direction of Mrs. C. E. Nagel, representing the local Parent-Teacher Association. The nutrition class is attracting the attention of child experts.

A community dance will be given tonight in the school auditorium. These neighborhood parties are arranged fortnightly under the auspices of the mothers. Mrs. E. Fiestal is chairman of the dance committee.

CURTAIN CALLS

THE art of acting as seen from the Russian viewpoint is making the theater-goers of New York forget for the moment the numerous revivals of Shakespeare.

Some time ago, a year ago last Saturday to be precise, Morris Gest presented what he was pleased to call the Chauvre-Souris. It happened to be Russian vaudeville. More recently he imported another school of Russian actors, the Moscow Art theater.

While both of these ventures were considered fool-hardy by the astute New York theater managers it is interesting to note that the members of the Moscow Art theater are being hailed as the greatest actors of the day and that the Russian vaudeville artists are now on the second year of their engagement at the Century Roof.

TWENTY SEASONS AGO TODAY

"The Christian" has concluded its run at the Alcazar theater in San Francisco. Alice Hunt has been playing Glory Quayle.

The romantic story of Belle's Chauvre-Souris and its unexpected success in New York shows once and for all that the public taste is varied. These artists using their native tongue with Zeller trying to explain in a jargon of his own half Russian, half American.

Four separate and distinct bills, all featuring the now celebrated "Parade of the Wooden Soldiers" have been presented at the Century Roof and have entertained upwards of half a million people.

Incidentally Belle has given Jack Sheehan, a local boy, an opportunity to achieve stardom. Sheehan is imitating Belle for comedy purposes with the Greenwich Village follies.

Roy Got Mad and Made a Hit

While on the subject of comedians and successes the thoughts turn to Roy Cummings now a hit in Shubert vaudeville and last seen here with the Brothers Howard in "The Passing Show."

Cummings is rated as one of the most effective of "nut comedians." He is the fellow who leaps on the back-drop falls through scenery and keeps his crowd in convulsions.

FORTY SEASONS AGO TODAY

Lawrence Barrett is playing "Francesca da Rimini" in Philadelphia. George Edgar has been engaged for a two year Shakespearean season.

"I was desperate at my failure. Acting was the only business I knew and I had to make good. I re-wrote my act. The next performance was worse than the one before."

"Seeing that my supreme effort was a failure, I became furious. I was disgusted with everybody and everything. I just cut loose and began to break up everything in sight. I tore up my hat and jumped on it. I pulled all the stage furniture around and tried to pull down the curtain."

"To my amazement the audience shrieked in merriment and I've been doing it ever since."

EXITS AND ENTRANCES

William Hanlon, acrobat and pantomime performer is dead. He was called the greatest of the six Hanlon brothers, all actors. He had spent 64 years on the stage, having retired in 1915, at the age of 28.

America from England in 1865. After the death of Thomas, caused by falls, the remaining five turned to pantomime. William was noted, not only for his acting, but for his stage inventions. He died in New York yesterday.

The fast pace, the lax manners and the flouting of propriety by the young people of New York, is discussed by Rachel Crothers in her new comedy "Nice People" which is to be presented at the Fulton on Sunday. Burns Mantle enthusiastically said that it is "as human as 'Lightnin''," and as true as "The First Year."

Since both "Lightnin'" and "The First Year" are known here only by reputation one must await the arrival of "Nice People" to judge of its value.

HUMANITARIAN WORK REDUCTION STIRS PROTESTS

Dr. French Says Conditions in State Deaf Blind School Intolerable.

Conditions in the State Deaf and Blind School in Berkeley are already the worst of any in the United States, and are practically unbearable, according to Dr. F. French, superintendent of the school, told the Council of Jewish Women at their meeting in San Francisco yesterday.

Dr. French said that Governor Richardson's budget means further grief and sorrow to the little blind and deaf children in the school. He declared that the school is so crowded that 14 children have to sleep in one small room; that 300 children have to eat together under deplorable conditions of overcrowding, and that inadequate plumbing is undermining the health of the children. The speaker also said that the equipment for training the blind children is inadequate, there being only one-tenth of the number of raised letter books that are required, and in which the blind children may feel out the alphabet by touch.

Dr. French made a comparison of the latest California budget provision with that so generously provided for its blind children by the State of Pennsylvania, and by Texas, which recently appropriated $1,400,000 for added facilities.

That Dr. French is not alone in his criticism of the Governor's budget where it cuts into humanitarian institutions is evidenced by a statement issued yesterday by the State Federation of Labor, and addressed to all labor organizations, in which they are asked to join in a fight against the Governor's cuts into appropriations for humanitarian institutions. The statement, which is headed "A Call to Action," declares that Governor Richardson seems to have "a fixed determination to wreck California's well-known humanitarian institutions, and to hamper the State's justly renowned educational facilities." Discussing the budget where it actually affects labor, the statement of the Federation of Labor says:

Appropriations	Richardson's Budget	Decrease
Bureau of Labor Commissioner's	$47,207	$288,000
Immigration and Housing Commission	152,578	152,578
Industrial Accident Commission	806,481	843,326
Industrial Welfare Commission	115,360	81,000
	$1,446,204	$863,850

The so-called economy budget prepared by the present Governor also cuts nearly a quarter of a million dollars from orphan's aid.

"Additional millions are taken from the public school system.

"Now is the time to protest. Make your voice known to your Senators and Assemblymen."

A statement was also issued yesterday by Miss Helen Edwards, president of the student body of the San Francisco State Teachers College, in which it is claimed that as a result of the Governor's cut into the appropriations of this institution, some 700 girl students may be forced to abandon their studies to qualify as teachers. The Governor's action cuts the appropriation for the college 30 per cent below the 1921 appropriation.

Superintendent of Education Will C. Wood announces that "Governor Richardson's statement regarding to justify his budget cuts on education reads like a criticism of the budget, rather than a defense."

The Governor is quoted today in dispatches from Sacramento as having intimated that he may approve an increased appropriation for the State Board of Forestry, and that he may abandon his plan for the abolition of the State Mining Bureau. However, the Governor is said to be firm in his attitude toward the National Guard, the budget of which was also cut, and he is quoted as having given it as his opinion that what remains of the appropriation for the guard is still too high.

It is known that, in regard to the State Mining Bureau, strong pressure is being brought to bear on the Governor to secure its retention. W. J. Loring, president of the American Mining Congress, is heading the movement to retain the bureau. Murray Innes, one of the largest producers of quicksilver in the State, is another advocate of the bureau, and is credited with claiming that Fletcher Hamilton, chief of the bureau, "saved the quicksilver industry of California."

Kidney and Bladder Troubles Conquered or Money Back

For 40 years, said Dr. Carey, I have been prescribing my Prescription No. 777 (known for years as Marshroot) for kidney and bladder sickness and how, then, retired from active practice I have made arrangements with leading druggists to dispense this wonderful prescription at a moderate price on a money-back if dissatisfied plan. Beware of kidney disease—thousands die of it every year who ought to be enjoying the blessings of life and health. Watch the symptoms. If you have specks floating before the eyes, puffy eyes, clammy feet or moist palms, backache or sideache, you ought to get a bottle of Dr. Carey's famous Prescription No. 777 right away. It has wonderfully benefited tens of thousands of cases of kidney and bladder disease and the results are guaranteed.

NOTE—Dr. Daniel G. Carey was a practicing physician for many years and his Prescription No. 777 has aided thousands of sufferers from kidney and bladder troubles. Hereafter you can always get this effective prescription in both liquid and tablet form at Owl Drug Co. and all reliable pharmacists the country over.—Advertisement.

Governor Can't Make Me Resign, Says W. C. Wood

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 8.—(By the United Press.)—In a fiery retort to Governor Richardson's proposal to further cut costs of educational work, W. C. Wood, state superintendent of public instruction, today declared that "if the governor hopes by his blind slashes to induce me to resign, he has misjudged me."

Wood refers to a statement given out by Governor Richardson last night in which he said he probably would make further slashes in the budget in the State Board of Education.

"Caesar is getting angry and spiteful and he has given way to blustering," the school superintendent says in the prelude to his scathing denunciation of the "economy" of the governor.

"The Governor's vindictive threat to cut the budget of my office to the marrow will not deter me in the least in my effort to inform the people of California concerning the budget. I have been elected for the purpose of serving the educational interests and I shall not falter in the least degree. If the Governor hopes by his blind slashes to induce me to resign, as others have done out of sheer hopelessness, he has misjudged me."

He says he intends to cut off more of my help. Well, I can buy a rubber stamp for correspondence that cannot be answered.

"If the Governor hopes by inducing to give the impression I have been enjoying at the people's expense, such ridiculous hokum is unworthy of answer. I was in my office last year more days than the State Treasurer was in his. I wasn't spending the people's time doing nothing."

Must Pay Alimony Or Go to County Jail

"I will give this man just four weeks more to make some effort to pay back alimony. When he comes here at that time if he has not done something he better bring along his grip and be prepared to stay at the county jail for an indefinite sojourn."

With these words Superior Judge Dudley Kinsell today admonished Manuel Cambra, sewer contractor, that he must pay his wife, Alekandra, alimony.

The old home was located at Sixteenth and West streets. It was given up a few years ago when the family moved to the Linda Vista district. Mrs. Benner's children are the late Mrs. W. A. Alwater, Edwin Benner of Honolulu, Harry Benner, Mrs. Thomas Connor, Miss Julia Benner and Miss Bertha Benner.

Sen. Johnson Is For Direct Primaries

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—(By International News Service.)—Branding the present system of nomination in the Republican party as "outrageous," Senator Hiram Johnson, Republican of California, a presidential candidate in 1920 and a possibility for 1924, today issued an appeal for direct primaries "in every state in the Union."

Johnson issued his appeal in a letter to Basil M. Manly, director of the People's Legislative Service, which the latter made public. An endorsement of Johnson's stand was made by Senator Capper, Republican of Kansas, with a pledge to fight for the direct primary in Kansas.

RELIEF FUND TO BE DIVIDED

JACKSON, Feb. 9.—Definite plans have been made by the Argonaut relief fund committee for distribution of that part of the $43,855 fund which will go to the widows and orphans of the men who lost their lives in the Argonaut mine disaster last August. One unit, the committee says, will be given to each widow and orphan. A unit amounts to approximately $875. Tentative plans have been arranged for payment of a brothers and sisters of the dead miners, allowing each parent and each brother and sister one-quarter of a unit. The fund is drawing interest at the rate of four per cent. There is no expense attached to handling it, nor will there be in its distribution.

WARM WELCOME GIVEN CHAMBER MUSIC SOCIETY

S. F. Group Opens Concert Series in Wheeler Hall in Interesting Program.

By ROY HARRISON DANFORTH.
The San Francisco Chamber Music Society will ever find out a hospitable shore. The group returned last evening for the beginning of a new series of concerts at Wheeler Hall in Berkeley, and received a warmer welcome than ever before. The recently acquired stamp of eastern approval was not the reason therefor; the society already has been accepted here gladly, and each renewal of acquaintance but establishes it more firmly in our regard.

Ravels's major quartet was, perhaps, the most interesting number played last evening. It is but twenty years old—which, musically, is infancy—and the gleam of freshness is not yet gone from it. There is little in Ravels's work that more thoroughly asserts the scope and originality of his genius. The playing of it was delightfully French, as it should be—clear, facile, piquant. The tres lent movement was exquisitely done, the sort of thing that makes chamber music greatest in music.

The D major quartet of Mozart afforded opportunity to hear again the perfect flute playing of Elias Hecht. The number was markedly beautiful. A Kreisler quartet, a minor, was the least impressive of the three works given, but the group drew alternate spirit and lyric charm from it. Louis Persinger played the first violin, Louis Ford the second, Nathan Firestone the viola and Walter Ferner the cello.

The society will give two more concerts in the series, two and four weeks, respectively, from last evening.

Woodland Invaded By Check Passers

Kern has caused warrants to be issued for the arrest of the men who signed the names of A. J. Robbins, J. Servertier and J. M. Wise.

PEAK IS URGED AS WINTER PARK

Suggestion that Mt. Diablo be used in place for winter sports by motorists, who during a portion of every year can enjoy Arctic experiences on and near its summit and return to sunshine and flowers, was made today by Frank Sanford, manager of the Oakland branch of the Howard Automobile Company.

Sanford was recently a member of a party that drove from Oakland up Mt. Diablo into banks of ice and snow nearly 4000 feet above sea-level, threw snowballs and made snow-men in a glacier-like canyon near the summit and with in a few hours returned home to sunshine, flowers and "winging birds."

"I suppose others have suggested this before, but I believe it worth while, considered as an added attraction for our metropolitan district of California," said Sanford. "This interest in Mt. Diablo, well established in Berkeley, Alameda, Albany, Richmond and in the communities within 100 miles of Mount Diablo."

Actress Testifies For Former Mate

Mrs. Hazel Rohan King, former actress and divorced wife of James G. Rohan, former theatrical magnate and bail bond broker, appeared today before Superior Judge Mortimer Smith and gave testimony in favor of Rohan, who was in court being examined as to his financial ability to pay a judgment against him. Mrs. King denied any knowledge of her husband's financial affairs and also denied that she was the owner of a theater at the time the judgment was entered. She was questioned on this line because the judgment ran against her, as well as her former husband.

The case was that of Lulu Gerdes against the estate of Theater and those who were financially interested in that institution at the time it was being operated. The order issued against Rohan was dismissed on his showing that he is not employed and his funds at the present time.

The lecture will be given by Edwin R. Jackson, a photographer, whose hobby is collecting historical documents and original photographs of Lincoln and Civil War negatives taken on the battlefields.

The committee in charge of the arrangements for the lecture is composed of Cedeno Jones, Theo Dredge and Frederick M. Jones.

School Bond Issue To Be Considered

On February 14, St. Valentine's Day, the representatives of various organizations will meet on the eleventh floor of the city hall to consider the $3,500,000 bond issue proposed for new schools for Oakland.

The bond issue, subject of many Board of Education battles, has been hanging fire for several months.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S SOCIETIES UNIT FOR BENEVOLENCE

Work Among the City and County Institutions to Be Systematized.

Benevolent and evangelical work among the various county and city institutions which have in the past been covered in more or less of a haphazard way are to receive the attention of an organized body representative of all the young people's organizations in the city, according to plans formulated at a special meeting at the Y. M. C. A. last night held under the direction of August Miller, who for the past several years has been active in this work.

The group at the meeting last night represented practically all of the organizations and bodies which during the past years have presented programs and services for the inmates of the county hospital at San Leandro and Arroyo Sanitation. In many cases the work has overlapped, and in others neglected altogether through misunderstanding.

One of the first acts of the new organization will be to appoint and maintain a part time chaplain at the County Hospital. August Miller was appointed chairman of the committee to interview officials at the hospital and several candidates for the position with the view of immediate appointment as soon as the organization is completed.

H. K. Langdon, president of the San Francisco Bay Association of the B. Y. P. U., was appointed to draw up a constitution for the new body and present it at the next meeting to be held on March 8. The tentative plan of organization is to have three members from each of the young people's organizations, namely, the Christian Endeavor, the Epworth League and the Baptist Young People's Union, and one representative from each young people's organization connected with either of these bodies.

A program is to be arranged for religious service and benevolent work at the various county institutions, hospitals, and city and county jails. Tentative arrangements have been made for the Easter program to be presented. The B. Y. P. U., under the leadership of M. K. Langdon, is to have charge of the work at the county hospital; D. W. Coleman will review officials with the intention of presenting a program at the county jail; Eddie Johnson will arrange for the work at hospitals other than in the city.

Eddie Johnson, temporary chairman, presided at the meeting last night.

FURNITURE MEN HEAR ADDRESS BY U. C. PROFESSOR

Periods Discussed by B. C. Jakway; Tonight's "Play Night."

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 9.—Bernard C. Jakway, extension lecturer of the University of California, discussed "The Furniture Period" today at the fourth day of the semi-annual Furniture Dealers' convention and market week, which is being held by 1700 furniture men from the western part of the country.

Tonight, the official play night of the week's convention, the dealers will be the guests of the Furniture Exchange Association at a banquet and feature show in the Colonial ballroom of the Hotel St. Francis.

With the arrival of additional dealers from distant points to attend the market, rest of the week took on a great impetus. The aggregate of purchases for the week will run into millions, according to a statement made today by Thos. J. Greaves, vice-president of the exchange association.

Among the arrivals yesterday were eight representatives of Barker Brothers in Los Angeles, the largest retail furniture establishment in the country. The buyers of the firm announced last night that it was their intention to purchase Pacific Coast industries and that they would do most of their buying for 1923 at the San Francisco Furniture Exchange.

"Selling Sleep" was the subject of an address at yesterday's luncheon by Ralph Calkins, advertising specialist for the H. K. McCann Company.

"Probably 75 per cent of the population of this country is now sleeping restlessly and unhealthfully on sagging springs and pillows that long ago have outlived their right to be kept on the premises by people who demand hygiene and comfort in everything else," he said. "The public must be educated to the need of healthful and restful sleep, since one-third of the life is spent in slumber."

Calkins pointed out that the strongest known appeals to the human interest are healthfulness, cleanliness, scientific construction and comfort and that all these desires are met by high-grade bed furnishings.

Pointing out the danger in the use of second-hand mattresses made from insanitary materials, Morris C. Simpson of the state department of weights and measures, declared at yesterday's luncheon that a great effort was being made by the state to co-operate with junk dealers to divert tons and tons of cheap materials from mattress manufacturing to the manufacture of roofing paper.

R. W. Krohnich of the Sunset Feather Company, was chairman of the day.

Tomorrow, the closing day of the convention and market, will be "Dealers' Day" and the daily luncheon meeting will be devoted to a general discussion of important trade topics.

Anti-Flapper Wife Asks For Divorce

Because she would not "bob her hair, paint her face, smoke cigarettes, be a flapper and accompany her husband to cafes," Leslie M. Allen, a carpenter's helper, employed by a local automobile concern, had no use for her, asserts Mrs. Edith P. Allen in a divorce suit instituted today.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 9.—After being out 20 minutes, the jury in the case of Alexander Gladstone, curio and art dealer of 985 Bush street, yesterday convicted Gladstone on seven counts of violating the Volstead act. The case came up in the court of Federal Judge William C. Van Fleet. The charges included having liquor in possession, transporting liquor, selling liquor, and conducting a public nuisance through violation of the prohibition law.

German Coal Barons Face French Courtmartial

Multimillionaire coal magnates and manufacturers of the Ruhr district were arrested and tried by court-martial by the French for disobedience of military orders. Some were deported and others forced to pay heavy fines. In the picture at the top is shown a scene in the court-room. DR. GRIMM of Essen, counsel for the defense, is on his feet pleading his clients' cause; behind him are his accused (left to right), THYSEN, with hands folded on the rail; KERSTEN, WUSTENHOFER, TENGE-MANN. FRENCH TROOPS CIRCLING RUHR; CUT OFF FOOD

It was asserted today by Fritz Thyssen, one of the biggest coal mine owners in the Ruhr basin.

While Thyssen was speaking news was being received of further sabotage despite French threats of death for any Germans guilty of such an act.

"It is a finish fight between the idle tools of the workers and the invaders' bayonets," declared Thyssen. "If the French like the kind of granite they are biting into let them keep on. They will only lose their teeth."

"Up to date France has not attained a single one of her objects. The coal and coke obtained from Ruhr mines since France entered the district scarcely amounts to what we formerly shipped voluntarily in one week. And the French have been in the Ruhr nearly five weeks. France backed the wrong horse when she counted upon the Ruhr."

Hugo Stinnes declared today that the reports that he was entering into negotiations with the French with a view to establishing amicable relations between the coal and iron interests of France and Germany.

It is claimed by Germans that such negotiations would be fatal to Stinnes' prestige. One German labor leader summed up German sentiment by saying:

"If Hugo Stinnes attempted to

Tashiera Estate Valued at $168,990

An estate valued at $168,990 was left by Mrs. Mary Tashiera, wife of George Tashiera and mother of Attorney Arthur Tashiera, when she died in Berkeley, August 7, last, according to an appraisal filed in the probate court. The estate consists of $115,915 in cash; Berkeley real estate, $6,063; Liberty Bonds, $22,000; other government securities, $15,000; Sausalito property, $2,860; San Francisco property, $375. Millionaire Joins Navy as Ensign

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 9.—Templeton Crocker has added $298,500 a year to his annual income of a million dollars. He joined the United States Navy yesterday as an ensign in Class 5. The Navy will also pay Mrs. Crocker, who is a millionairess in her own right, an additional allowance of $40 a year. His interest in the service gained during war time attracted Crocker back to the Navy.

Train Hits Truck; Youth Badly Hurt

His auto truck smashed in a crash with a Southern Pacific electric train at Seventh and Oak streets early today. A. F. Wagner, 18, 1062 Fifty-ninth street, is at the head of the list of injured.

Concussion of the brain and cuts and bruises. Wagner was taken to the hospital by H. M. Williams and W. P. Fitzgerald, the train's brakeman.

Therefore with the French it would be tantamount to suicide. Why he would be torn to pieces if he ever showed his face in the Ruhr again. Besides, we would simply take over his property and tell him to go to hell—or to France."

POETIC SOUL IS NOT CURBED BY PRISON WALLS

Stone walls did not a prison make for Charles Byron (Air Brake) Smith's poetic soul, and in proof of the contention he furnished Superior Judge Lincoln S. Church with a sample of his poetry when he was taken into court today on a fictitious check charge.

Smith is charged with having passed a check for $19.50 on Eugene Wilson, an employee of H. C. Copwell. The check was made out on the Central National Bank, where Smith had no account, according to the complaint.

The poet-check writer served time in San Quentin prison in 1921 for burglary committed in Sacramento, and attempted to escape in one of the deliveries there in June. He was recaptured two hours after he left the prison.

According to Smith he earned the title of "Air Brake" when he perfected an air brake while employed as an engineer for a local railroad. His poem, which is entitled "The Gulls of San Quentin," is as follows:

"Out of the fog and mist and rain you come,

Seaside, O. prospect clear with canary eye.

You vagrant, wand'ring nomad of the deep,

With wheel and curve and dip you loiter by.

"Little you reach for ramparts, towers and walls,

Which man has placed about his fellow man.

To hold him to his toil thru long-drawn hours.

And days and months and years

Grained, the bird, the bird, the bird,

"Borne by your tireless pinions do you come,

Scaling the heights with scream and jeering cry.

Tarry awhile within the 'bode of shame,

Then forth again you go to cleave the sky.

"Freely you pass, unfettered, unrestrained,

Guided by impulse, wild, in all you do.

Love of liberty in you is en-

Symbol of freedom, sweet, I envy you."

TAKE SALTS IF RHEUMATISM IS ROTHERING YOU

Tells Rheumatism Sufferers to Take Salts to Get Rid of Toxic Acid.

Rheumatism is no respecter of age, sex, color or rank. If not the most dangerous of human afflictions it is one of the most painful. Those subjected to rheumatism should, as far as possible, avoid any undue exposure and above all, drink lots of pure water.

Rheumatism is caused by uric acid or body waste matter, and is often mistaken in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this poison from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly, cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work; they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this toxic acid, which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain, called rheumatism.

At the first twinges of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is helpful to neutralize acidity, remove waste and stimulate the kidneys, thus helping to rid the blood of these rheumatic poisons.

LUMBERMEN OF EAST WELCOMED BY OAKLANDERS

Leader Says U. S. Depends Upon West for Supply in Future.

The sons of eastern lumbermen will be the western lumbermen of the future, according to William Ryan of Toledo, who was one of the speakers for the Ohio lumbermen who were guests in this city yesterday.

"The United States depends for its future lumber supply wholly upon the west," said Ryan, "and we lumbermen of the east are realizing this fact more and more. Looking into the future, we are preparing to send our sons out here to settle. Many of us, of course, cannot come here, but our children will be California's lumbermen of tomorrow."

Ryan was one of the three who spoke for Ohio's 100 lumbermen and their wives, who arrived in this city yesterday morning to tour the city as guests of the Chamber of Commerce and to be entertained at lunch by the Retail Lumbermen of the Eastbay cities.

Verne Hunter, president of the Eastbay Lumber Association, presided at the luncheon. Harrison Robinson made the address of welcome.

The easterners are touring the west primarily on a pleasure jaunt, and are traveling on their own special train. They arrived at Berkeley station of the Southern Pacific yesterday morning, where they were greeted by representatives of the Chamber of Commerce and representatives of the local lumber interests. They were then taken on an automobile tour through Berkeley and over the Skyline boulevard and to the Hotel Oakland. Prior to the arrival of the train the party was met by a pretty Oakland maid who had gone ahead with baskets of flowers for the visitors.

Robinson spoke in part as follows: "It is a fact that the trend of civilization has been ever westward. My forefathers came from Vermont to Ohio and from Ohio to California, the final goal of all time. When you reached this western coast you reached the extremity of America and are in the center of the empire of the future. Today you are getting a little glimpse of one of the great cities of that empire—the place your children or children's children will see the hub of the world's commerce."

Louis Lewin, president of the Ohio Retail Lumber Dealers' Association, praised Californians for their efficiency and their hospitality. Kate Laver of Cincinnati complimented California on the gallantry of her men.

Says His Prescription Has Powerful Influence Over Rheumatism

Mr. James H. Allen of Rochester, N. Y., suffered for years with rheumatism. Many times this terrible disease left him helpless and unable to work.

He finally decided, after years of ceaseless study, that no one can be free from rheumatism until the accumulated impurities, commonly called uric acid deposits, were dissolved in the joints and muscles and excreted from the body.

With this idea in mind he consulted physicians, made experiments and finally formulated a prescription that quickly and completely banished every sign and symptom of rheumatism from his system. He freely gave his discovery, which he called Alkermid, to others, who took it with what might be called marvellous success. After years of urging he decided to let sufferers everywhere know about his discovery through the newspapers. He has therefore Alkermid with the understanding that if the first bottle does not show the way to complete recovery he will gladly return your money without comment. Owl Drug Co. can supply you.—Advertisement.

WUPOR CLOSED WINDOW; NEW TRIAL IS ASKED

Because one of the jurors assumed the duties of the court bailiff and closed a window in the court room while testimony was being taken, attorneys for Abraham Updy, colored, recently convicted of a statutory offense, today demanded a new trial for their client.

In the motion, which was argued before Superior Judge Samuels and submitted for decision, the contention was made that during the trial one of the jurors left the jury box, without permission of the court, and closed a nearby window. It is claimed that the court was compelled to admonish the juror to return to the jury box, and that during the absence of the juror he lost considerable of the evidence through having his attention on the window rather than on the trial.

CINCINNATI VETEDAM JULIUS H. VETEDAM ASKS A DIVORCE

Opposing his entering the army in 1917, Maye G. Bayer charged him with seeking to neglect her and the children and since his return home after service in Siberia as a commissioned officer, has been cold and indifferent to him, making him feel that he was not welcome, asserts J. C. Bayer in a petition asking for a divorce.

Bayer sets forth that he joined the army in 1917, was later made a commissioned officer and sent to Siberia in August, 1918. While there he became sick, Bayer avers, and returned to this country in the Spring of 1919.

Since his return, says Bayer, his wife has showed no consideration for him. He further charges that his wife contracted excessive bills, though she knew that, if his salary was attached, he would lose his position as solicitor for a railroad. He does not ask for custody of the three children.

REFORMERS KINNI V SINCE WAR, SAYS 'BRICK' MORSE

Veteran Member of the Glee Club Home From Tour of Central Europe.

BERKELEY, Feb. 9.—"The Germany of today can't do enough for the visiting American," declared Clinton R. ("Brick") Morse, veteran member of the University of California Glee Club, who has just returned from a three months tour of central Europe.

Greeted yesterday by 200 members of the Glee Club at a "welcome home" party in Siles Hall, Morse declared that conditions were unusually favorable for a tour of Europe by the college musical organization.

Morse incited the possibilities for such a trip by the University Glee Club and says in this regard:

"A college glee club in Europe would be as unusual as a foreign crown in this country."

FRANCE CALLED BLIND.

Discussing present-day conditions in Europe Morse said:

"France is blind with rage and the minds of her statesmen are poisoned with hatred or she would not have invaded the Ruhr district. Revenge for the last war is France's only thought. What France needs is a clear-thinking leader. Unless she goes to Germany without malice and declares that she will play a sportsmanlike game, there can be no peace between Germany and France."

"At the present time France is just as militaristic a country as Germany ever was. Germany has changed since her defeat. Her people now realize that it was militarism that caused all the trouble, and she has now settled down to work to pay off her debt. While the conditions are depressing, with between 60 and 80 per cent of a person's income being taken as taxes to pay off the national debt, the people as a whole are optimistic and philosophical."

GERMANS CHANGED.

"One of the things that made a great impression on me while I was in Germany was the very kind way I was treated, which was a sharp contrast with the discourteous treatment that I received when I visited Germany before the war. This time, however, the Germans couldn't do enough for me, and everywhere I went throughout Europe I was warmly welcomed because I was an American. Europeans think Americans are the greatest people on earth."

MAYOR ISSUES HOLIDAY APPEAL

Mayor Davis today issued the following proclamation:

TO THE PEOPLE OF OAKLAND: On February 12, 1809, Abraham Lincoln was born on a small farm in Kentucky. Monday, February 12, will be the one hundred and fourteenth anniversary of his birth.

The example of Abraham Lincoln is an inspiration to all true Americans. His life was one of real Americanism, a life of sacrifice in the service of his fellow men.

Abraham Lincoln was the leader of our country at a critical period in his history, and it is to the wonderful work which he did at that time that we owe the small measure of success of our government "of the people, by the people, and for the people."

The schools, patriotic organizations, and churches of Oakland are planning special programs in honor of the anniversary of Abraham Lincoln's birth, and in this manner thousands of our people and our children will join in honoring this great American.

Under the political code of the State of California, Lincoln's birthday has been set aside as a holiday and I know that all the people of our city will welcome the opportunity on Monday of paying respect to the memory of Abraham Lincoln and observing the anniversary of his birth in some fitting manner.

Peck, to Tacoma, where he had them arrested. After the couple had remained in jail three days he caused the complaint to be dismissed, as Peck's wife pleaded that her recent husband was the son of a prominent minister. He also charged Mrs. Merrick with other statutory offenses.

"SAMSONS" AND "DELILAHs" AT U. C. IN TRUCE

BERKELEY, Feb. 9.—The "Samsons" and "Delilahs" have declared a truce in their war of sexes at the University of California.

Warfare peace now reigns. And the reason? Too much publicity has fallen to the lot of the belligerent students. The powers that reign among college students have placed their stamp of disapproval on the two clubs by calling the actions of the members "undignified" and as "reflecting on the seriousness of college life."

So it is that 35 ceremonial gowns belonging to the Delilahs and as many paper hoods have been discarded, and 25 beards have been shaved from the faces of as many Samsons. And because both have "won" the battle there is happiness in the rival camps.

The Samsons were organized to combat the wiles of co-eds and the Delilahs, true to their name, to weaken the government by forcing the members to shear their whiskers. Roy Pless, Walter Powell, Franklin Roberts and Lynn Chaplin, organizers of the Samsons, declare that they will end other means to fight college maidens in the future.

WASHINGTON NOTES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Declaring there was no hope of obtaining the necessary votes so long as "adherents of the Ford proposal" opposed him, Senator Norris (Rep.) of Nebraska, today withdrew his amendment to the Army bill appropriating $2,000,000 for completion of nitrate plant No. 1 at Muscle Shoals, Ala.

Norris, during a long speech in favor of the proposal, declared the government must go forward with experiments into processes of fixation of nitrate regardless of what disposition was made of the Alabama project. Discovery of a method of producing cheap fertilizer would benefit the entire world, he said, adding that whatever contract was made for Muscle Shoals, the plant he proposed would be a necessary adjunct.

The Bursum soldier bonus bill was taken up by the Senate military affairs committee today and arrangements were made to begin hearings on the measure tomorrow. The bill was introduced by Senator Bursum, after President Harding had vetoed the last bonus measure passed by Congress. It would allow $25 a month for each soldier for more than 60 days during the war. War veterans organizations have endorsed the measure.

Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas will be the next Democratic leader of the Senate, and upon his militant shoulders will fall a large share of the task of shaping the Democratic program for the coming year.

Robinson's succession to the Democratic leadership was assured today by the withdrawal of Senator Simmons of North Carolina, ending a long fight for the nomination for senator.

Those who backed the Ozark man assert today that with the ending of this fight has disappeared the last vestige of Democratic discord in Congress.

A final drive by administration forces was under way today for enactment of the Harding-Lasker subsidy bill before adjournment of the present Congress. The subsidy measure, center of one of the Senate's bitterest parliamentary battles, was flung back into debate and administration leaders announced they would keep it before the Senate until they obtained the decision asked by President Harding.

There they will compare the prints with those of 29,000 men seeking to learn whether or not they correspond. If the man does not have a record he probably will be buried without identification. Shannon has not fixed the date for the inquest.

GIRL TELLS TALE OF BRANDING BY KIDNAPING TRIO

Father Scouts Story and Has Daughter Turned Over to Chicago Police.

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—(By International News Service.)—Denouncing her tale of kidnapping and torture as a fraud, Henry Erick today obtained a warrant for the arrest of his daughter, Mildred, 24, a church organist, on a disorderly conduct charge. Miss Erick earlier in the day had reported to police that three hooded men abducted her, stripped her and carved six cankers in her flesh with a sharp knife.

"I don't believe her story. I want the truth," Erick said. "That's why I'm having my daughter arrested."

Detectives were sent to Erick's home to take the girl, formerly a nurse, into police headquarters for questioning.

As they pounded on the front door of the Erick home to arrest Miss Erick, she slipped out a rear door with a bundle of clothes and vanished. The officers later reported to their superiors.

"It's not the Klan," Erick commented. "There's something else behind it. I'm going to find out what it is."

Miss Erick, who recently renounced her Protestant faith and joined the Catholic church, said she recently received a threatening letter signed "Ku Klux Klan."

"An automobile drove up to a corner I was rounding," the woman said. "And three men got out. They wore masks or hoods. One threw a revolver. I was dragged into the car. Then I lost my senses. When they returned, I was lying beside a suburban railroad track."

"The man made me disrobe. Two held me while the others cut my hair and one began cutting crosses in my body. Then they left me. I stumbled on till I came to a convent, where I was taken in and cared for."

Bootleggers Get Six Months' Terms

BERKELEY, Feb. 9.—Barney McKelvey, 35, and Walter W. McDowell, 31, both of 1002 Faraday street, today began serving sentences of six months each in the county jail as a result of a raid on their establishment Wednesday night in which 500 gallons of moonshine whiskey was confiscated.

Both men entered pleas of guilty before Judge Robert Edgar yesterday. Sergeant Oscar Putaker, added by a squad of Berkeley officers, conducted the raid.

ALAMEDA, Feb. 9.—The municipal belt line of Alameda netted the city a profit of $102.50 for the six months ending December 31, 1922, as incorporated in a report submitted by A. D. Goldsberry, secretary of the board of public utilities, at its monthly meeting.

Plans Complete For Dedication of S.O.S. Crusade

Fred M. Kerrick, secretary of the Save Oakland's Sequoias Committee, today announced final plans for the dedicatory mass meeting of the reorganized "S. O. S." committee, which will be held in the amphitheater above Joaquin Miller's park Sunday at 3 p. m.

Unless inclement weather should cause the postponement of the meeting a week, this joint observance of Lincoln's birthday, linked with the revival of the Save Oakland's Sequoias crusade, it is predicted, will be attended by many who are concerned in the civic betterment of Oakland.

Rabbi Rudolph Coffee, pastor of Temple Sinai, will lead a caravan of motor cars which will leave the city hall at 2:30 p. m. Autoists who will attend the meeting have been asked to pick up pedestrians at this place or along the Park boulevard and Joaquin Miller road. Many machines already have been promised for this service.

A hiking party which will start from the end of the Park boulevard, will lead to the meeting. An invitation has been extended by J. Carl Seiberger, president of the Contra Costa Hills Club, to hikers to join the club in the eight-mile tramp to the meeting. An open discussion of the park project. Some of the questions which will be taken up are:

"How much of the original park area of 1647 acres, favored by early two-thirds of the voters at the August election, must Oakland acquire this spring or next?"

ARCHITECTS MAKE
ARCHITECTS MAKE GALLERY EXHIBIT

By LACRA BRIDE POWERS.
As a part of a national movement to bring architecture into closer relationship with its kindred arts—sculpture and painting—the Oakland Art Gallery is housing an exhibition of work of Eastbay architects that stands up creditably with previous exhibitions across the bay, though fewer monumental subjects are presented than are looked for in the occasional—far too occasional—exhibitions of the "Mother of the Arts" in the West. But in compensation, as hosts a community where homes express the spirit of the people, the exhibition includes many beautiful and well-thought-out residence adapted to the glorious hills that enfold Oakland and her sister cities. Here it is that the show holds its chief interest, although it must be confessed there is no distinctive expression that carries a suggestion of the long-looked-for American or Californian type. "But," defends one of its exhibitors, "do not the adaptations from the south of Europe, where the climatic conditions are comparable to California, and the out-door life of the people is much the same, answer our physical and esthetic needs fairly well?"

Ruth Gabriel, whose studio is shared by Cora Boon, the aquarist, shows an interesting study of a fountain that may some day play its part in a secret garden near the lake. Rupert Smith, one of the old guards of California sculpture, is presented in architectural ornament, and Howard Gilkey, landscape architect, offers an esthetic concept of Lake Merritt that should emphasize in the minds of apathetic Oaklanders the superlative beauty of the jewel set in the heart of the city.

While the big thing to be looked for in the exhibition is the architectural conception—the realized thing—the rendition is not without interest. And a half-dozen of the drawings bear a relationship to each other, so sensitively and spontaneously are they produced. The exhibition will remain a month.

Among the architects represented are: William Knowles, Reed and Corlett, Schermer, Hugbee Co., C. W. McCall, E. W. Cannon, W. H. Ratcliff, Slocumb and Field, J. J. Donovan, Harris Allen, James W. Plafhek, Williams & Wastell, Guy L. Brown, W. R. Yelland.

Copper Wire Is Taken By Thief

Four thousand feet of copper wire, the property of the Pacific Electric Motor Company, was reported stolen last night from the U. S. Light and Heat Company at Ninety-eighth avenue and the Southern Pacific tracks. The burglary was reported to the police by J. P. Botelho, 251 Twelfth street. Jewelry and wearing apparel valued at a hundred dollars was reported stolen from the home of Charles Nelson, 475 Seventh street. The burglar entered the house with a pass key.

H. P. Rose, St. James hotel, reported to the police that his wallet containing $37 was stolen last night. As he was getting out of the elevator he told the police he saw a colored woman near his door.

Oakland Resorts
To Joy-Rides to Get Men Wanted

A special "poverty auto trip," with a machine full of lunch and gasoline, is now being tried out by the police department in returning two prisoners from Los Angeles.

At present, the city of Oakland and the county of Alameda are battling to see which must pay for the return of prisoners. The city of Oakland has drawn the line and says it is the duty of the sheriff's office. The county balks. Meantime, there are prisoners in various parts of the state to be returned to Oakland. The counties which captured the prisoners for Oakland are not concerned with the city-county row here and refuse to feed the prisoners beyond a certain limit. If the prisoners are not brought here quickly, they are turned loose.

Alarmed by this state of affairs, the city is planning the "poverty auto trips." The chief of police has informed his force that he will send them out for prisoners, and they can use city cars, but he cannot give them expense accounts.

Inspectors Sternitsky and Robinson took a chance today and started for Los Angeles in a city

Violent Temper Is Charged to ransoman

Possessed of an uncontrollable temper, Daniel C. Simpson, a mechanic, would tear chandeliers from the ceiling, throw clocks at the mirror and break up the furniture generally, declares Mrs. Rebecca S. Simpson, asking for a divorce, half the community property and custody of three children. They were married 17 years ago in San Francisco and separated Wednesday.

During the past few months her husband has refused to work and she had to support the family, avers Mrs. Simpson. She declares the community property consists of notes worth $5100, money due, $2000, and a truck and trailer. The home at 453 Hudson street and an automobile is her separate property, avers the wife.

car to return two prisoners. The Sternitsky-Robinson entourage is full of lunch and has four tanks of gasoline. It has extra tires, handcuffs and everything but an expense account. One of the inspectors has a friend in Los Angeles and they may board with him for a day. Otherwise there will be no expense.

"It is not dignified, exactly," says Chief of Police Drew, "but it brings the prisoners back, anyhow."

"HOW TO REALIZE YOUR DESIRES AND MAKE YOUR DREAMS COME TRUE"

James W. Freeman
Assistant Editor
"WHO'S WHO IN AMERICA"
says of Harry Gaze's work:

"This work is the result of earnest study and observation, covering a period of over twenty-five years, during which time he has traveled more than two hundred thousand miles and lectured in hundreds of towns and cities. It represents a wide acquaintance with books, embracing the principle sciences, especially biology, physiology, psychology, evolution and individual attainment of notable men and women in all the greatest nations of the world, and also represents the result of personal contact with thousands of students and advanced thinkers in England and America.

"He seeks to open to the student the only foundations upon which the truly successful career can be built. During his exceedingly active experience as a platform speaker, lecturer and teacher, the author has been interested in causes rather than effects. He has constantly sought to emphasize the appreciation of vitalized, dynamic thought, in the affairs of every-day life, and his writings abound in many of the most striking and helpful teachings as to the essential value of right thinking, that are to be found in the English language.

"It is, above all, the emphasis upon thought, out of which the visible universe, in every detail of its minutest part, has come into existence, and through the potency of which every visible thing is formed and sustained.

"He also emphasizes the importance of right motive as the only basis of rational living, and shows that a kindly and generous nature has nurtured us and brought us to a stage of this marvelous Twentieth Century, where many men and women are prepared to receive the message of Conscious Constructive Evolution—one of the most welcome and far-reaching messages that has ever found entrance to the mind of man.

"Conscious Evolution, according to the system here presented, means scientific, constructive thinking for continuous advancement, and constructive thinking, we are assured, means youth, health, happiness, and abundance of material prosperity.

"Surely here is something worth while!

"The simple statement of the principles of the New and Applied Psychology, which any earnest student may learn and apply, carries conviction to the open mind; and the application of the principles, clearly stated from many points of view, would work a silent revolution for harmony and happiness throughout the world, and would prove the greatest blessing in all departments of life that imagination can conceive."

ROGER W. BABSON
The noted financial expert, says in the United States Bulletin in reference to the work of Harry Gaze:

"The great problem before American industry today is: How can we revive in labor a desire to produce and enjoy in production?"

"Certain investigations recently made by the United States Bulletin lead us to believe that the solution may come through a religious revival. We do not refer to the old-fashioned religious revival of Methodist camp meeting days. We refer more to the work which some of the so-called 'new thought' people are doing. They take hold of struggling workers and, by talking success and prosperity, actually increase their productivity and earning capacity. Definite classes in 'success and prosperity' are now being held by Harry Gaze. In these classes the teacher shows that enterprise, initiative and will power can be learned and cultivated like French or Spanish.

"Government reports clearly show that it makes little difference to a manufacturer in what line of work he is engaged. There are opportunities in all lines. It is impossible to mention an industry in which some one is not now making 1,000,000. This same principle applies to wage-workers. It makes little difference whether one works in a shoe factory, in a cotton mill, or in a steel plant. Every one of these industries offers wonderful opportunities for improvement and development. All of them are hungry for new ideas. Most of the ideas now being used have come from the soul of some wage-worker. All wage-workers have the same opportunity today. Yes, the opportunity is now greater than ever.

"We strongly advise manufacturers, business men, and their executives to give greater consideration to these matters."

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 9.—With the work of selecting a jury completed, the second trial of Henry Wilkens, garage mechanic, charged with complicity in his wife's murder, was begun today before Superior Judge Ward. Seven days were required to secure the twelve jurors who will pass on Wilkens' fate, and 150 talesmen, the great st number in years, according to Judge Ward, were examined. The majority of talesmen excused, were rejected on account of having formed a strong opinion as to the guilt or innocence of the defendant, or because of their prejudice in bringing in a verdict in a capital offense in which

PETALUMA NOTES

PETALUMA, Feb. 9.—At a meeting of the local prohibition directors Tuesday evening, a communication was read from the Santa Rosa chamber of commerce inviting the local body to be present at a meeting held in Santa Rosa last night to take up the question whether Sonoma county shall have a fair this year. A committee attended the meeting. At the meeting here it was decided that Petaluma would hold its annual flag day in early snow, August 25, 26, 27.

The case of Frank Grant, accused of violating the local prohibition ordinance, came up in Police Judge Plan's court. A score of women had been summoned, with a sprinkling of men from whom the jury was to be selected. The defendant pecked into the court room, and when he glimpsed the array of amazons in the jury box, summoned his attorney to the ante-room and said he would take his chances in having his sentence delivered direct from the bench. The sentence was $100 fine and 120 days in the county jail.

RICHMOND BEATS MITH-RITE TEAM

RICHMOND, Feb. 9.—The Richmond Unlimited basketball team defeated the Mith-Rite quintet at the Oakland High school last evening by a score of 38 to 18, and climbed out of the cellar position in the Eastbay Basketball League. Mith-Rite put up the star performance of the evening, while Odland, former St. Mary's star, was the feature of the loser's play. The Richmond team lined up as follows: Daley and Greathouse, forwards; Tracey and Macdonald, center; Dolan, Moore, Huzetka, Schultz and Burs, guards.

'Get Laugh Habit,' Is Latest Edict of Berkeley C. of C.

BERKELEY, Feb. 9.—Laugh! Get the habit of happiness! This has the board of directors of the Berkeley Chapter of Commerce, which recently issued an ultimatum against sneezing in the college city, sent forth a new edict.

The laughter proclamation comes as part of a campaign being conducted here to reduce the mortality rate and to make Berkeley the "healthiest city" in the country. It follows a report coming from Dr. Jau Don Ball, psychiatrist and chairman of the chamber's committee on mental hygiene.

Dr. Ball says: "It would be well to mention that mental hygiene is a term applied to methods used to purge the mind of its sorrows, depressions, anxieties and dissensions and to methods used to stimulate interest, hope, ambition, wholesome desires, joy in living, success and happiness."

As following out these fundamental principles in mental hygiene, the Chamber of Commerce through Secretary Charles Koeler today urged the people of Berkeley "to get the habit of happiness."

By FREDERICK G. NEUMETER, United Press Staff Correspondent.
 MEXICO CITY, Feb. 9.—The department of the interior stated today that it had no information to support the report from Houston, Tex., that Clara Phillips, fugitive hammer slayer, is held in the penitentiary at Chihuahua. The Chihuahua authorities two days ago telegraphed that they did not know anything about Mrs. Phillips whereabouts or movements.

HOUSTON, Texas, Feb. 9.—(By the United Press.)—Clara Phillips, escaped "hammer murderer," is in the state penitentiary at Chihuahua, Mex., according to Les Manning, federal immigration officer, who returned Phil Alguin, Pacific coast fugitive, to America from Mexico.

"As soon as the Alguin case is off my hands I will return to Chihuahua and arrange for her deportation as well," Manning declared today.

"Mrs. Phillips fled to Chihuahua as plans were being completed to rush her across the border from Juarez, where she sought refuge after her sensational escape from a Los Angeles jail. She went into Chihuahua after an overland journey by mule train," Manning said.

A Choice Made On Saint Valentine's Day is a lucky choice so an old legend tells us.

The old belief will hold good provided your choice for the Valentine Spread be

Nucoa
 The Choice Spread for Bread

Nucoa is so deliciously delicate in flavor, it is the perfect "go-between" for thinly cut heart-shaped sandwiches. Creamed with sugar and flavored it makes a delicious ice-cream filling for the sweet sandwich, and it is the cooking medium you need to insure the richest of cakes, the most delicious of home made candies, and the sweetest of salted nuts for the Heart Party table.

And Nucoa is not only "lucky" because it helps you to serve the choicest of foods, but because it also cuts your Spread bill in half.

N.B. Ask your Grocer about Nucoa. He will tell you that his choice customers use it, and that he can absolutely guarantee it will give you your money back if Nucoa isn't your choice of all Spreads.

CAPTURE COST $6000.
 "I haven't much to say, except that I am the happiest man in the world," said Chief of Police Oaks of the Los Angeles police department, when he arrived here today.

"I have traveled nine thousand miles and spent $6000 to turn this trick and it sure makes me feel good to see it coming to an end."

Asked if he expected to recapture Clara Phillips, escapee hammer murderer, in a similar manner, Oaks said:

"I'm not so interested in Clara just now. Phil is the boy I am after. When I get him off my mind then I will start for Clara."

A Hot Dish for a cool morning

There is nothing more bracing these chilly mornings than a hot nourishing cereal—and whole wheat is all nourishment—yet easily digested.

It's easy to make a real whole-wheat porridge. Just put two Shredded Wheat Biscuits in a small saucepan; add salt and enough water to cover the bottom of the pan; stir and boil until thick. Then serve with milk or cream. Try it—then you'll know what a hot cereal really can be.

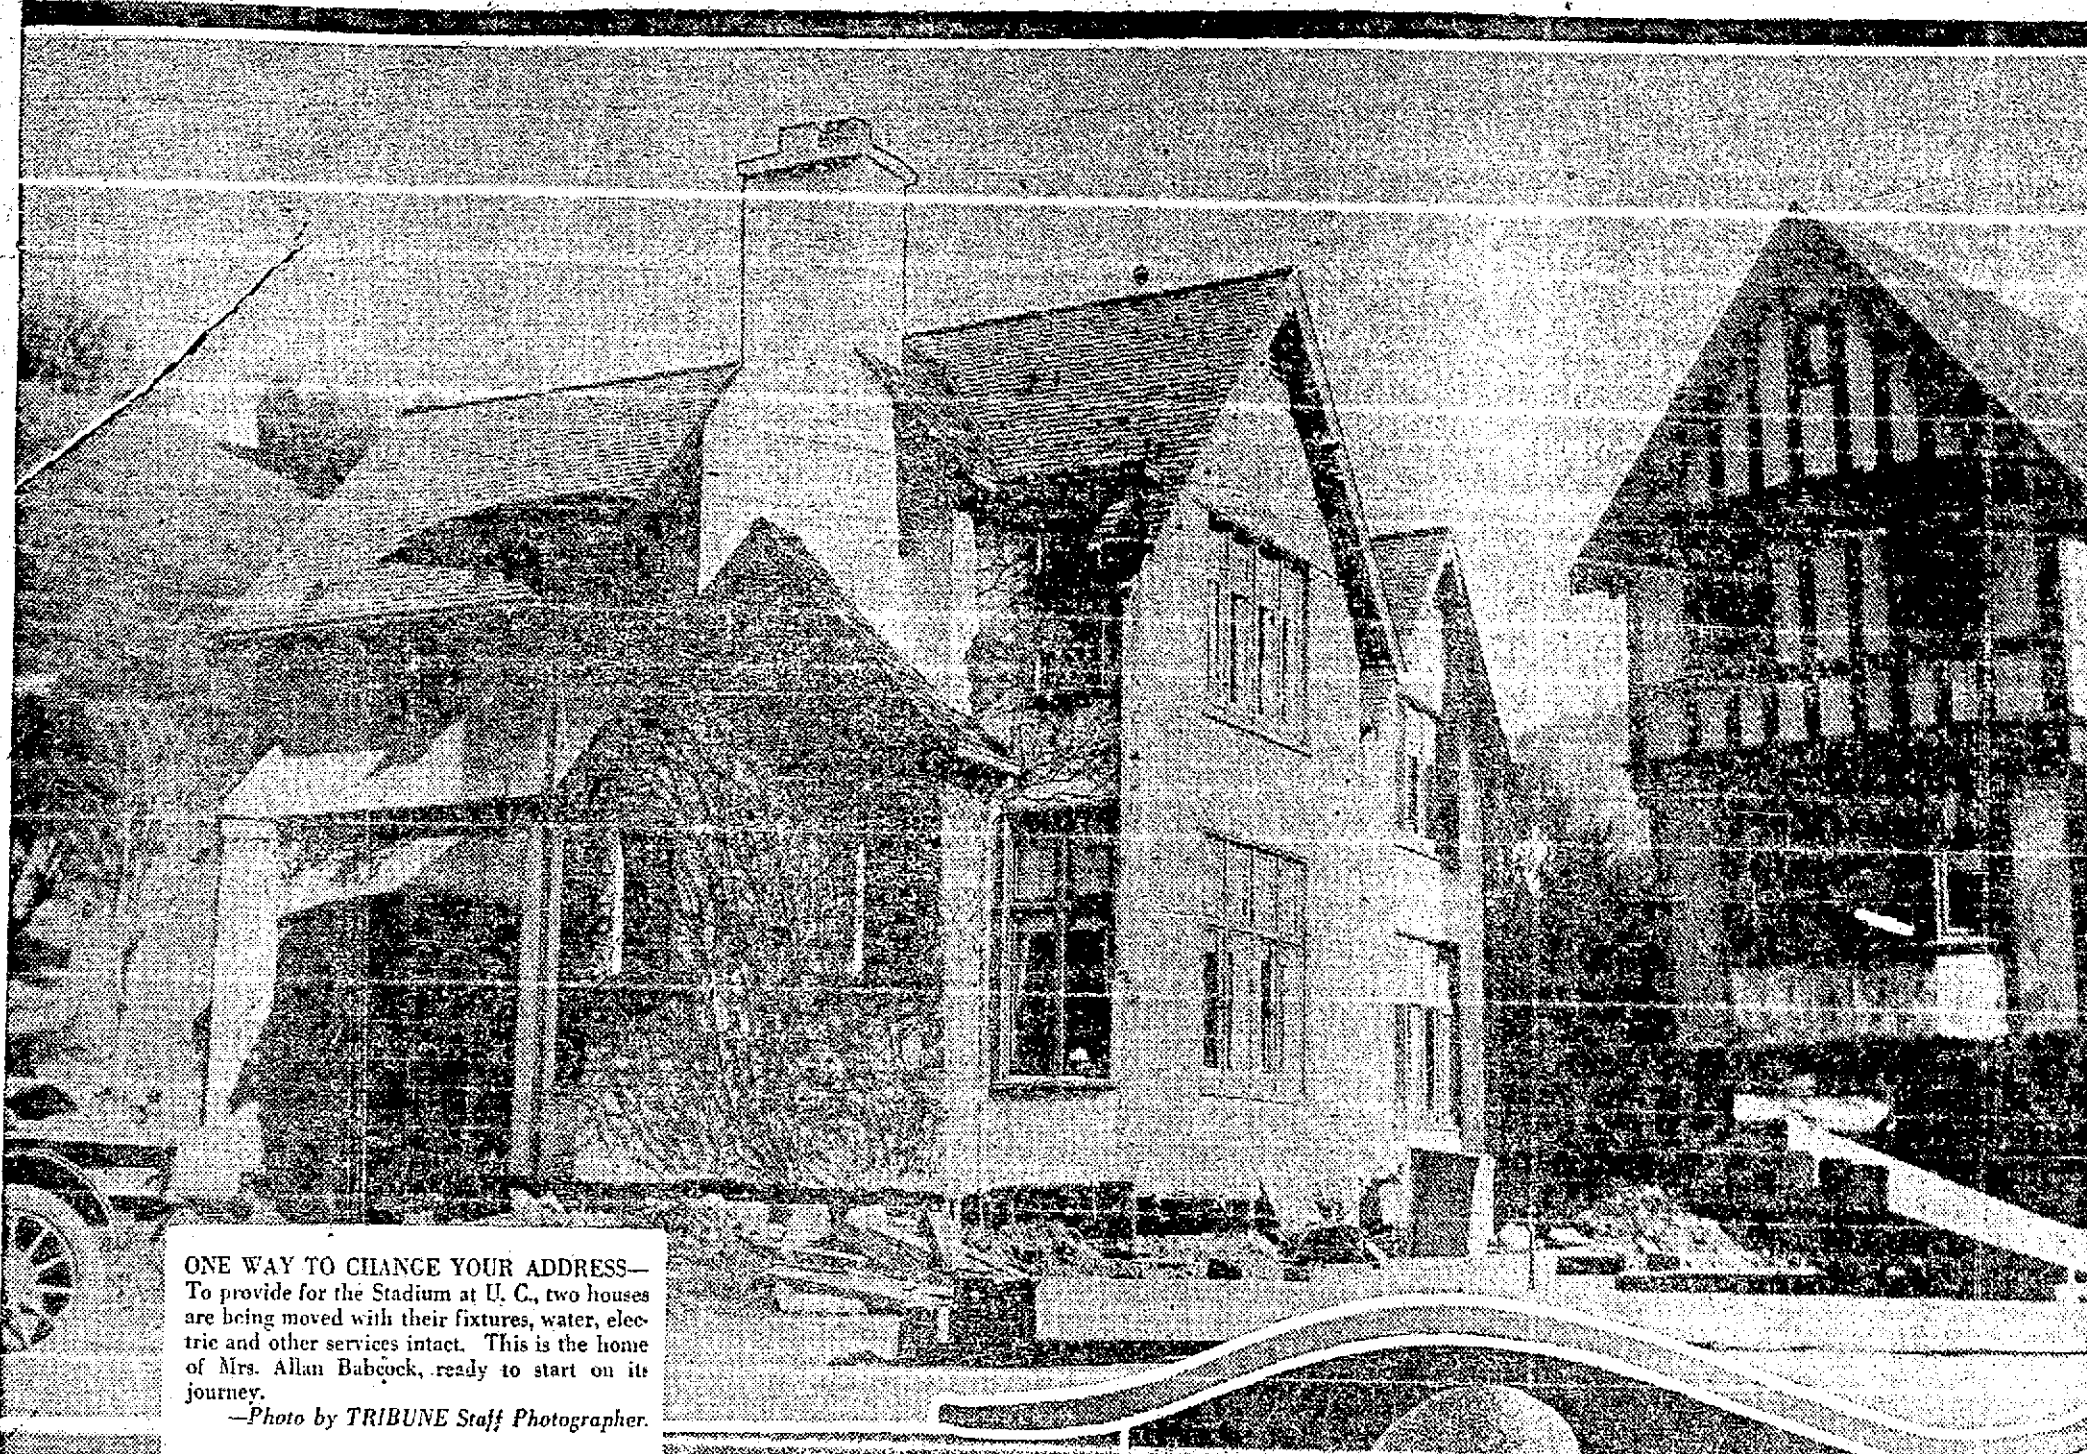

Shredded Wheat
 The perfect food in Biscuit form

Shredded Wheat is 100% whole wheat, ready-cooked and ready-to-eat. A perfect, delicious food for any meal of the day. Serve it simply with milk or cream, or topped with berries or fruits. Contains all the bran you need to stimulate bowel movement. It is salt-free and unsweetened—you season it to your taste.

Triscuit is the Shredded Wheat Cracker—a real whole-wheat toast. Try it with butter, soft cheese or marmalades.

Uncle Wiggily

Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY'S BAKED BEANS.

Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy was taking down inside the molasses. It was the same jug out of which Uncle Wiggily, the day before, had smeared himself with lacy stuff and scattered chickens' feathers on to fool the Bob Cat.

"What are you looking for, Nurse Jane?" asked the bunny gentleman. "Are you afraid some feathers are in the molasses?"

"Oh, no," answered Nurse Fuzzy Wuzzy. "I was just looking to see there was enough molasses left to put in the baked beans."

"I never knew that you put molasses in baked beans," said Uncle Wiggily.

"Oh, yes, indeed!" said Nurse Jane. "Baked beans wouldn't be right without molasses. But I think there is enough. I didn't use it all in a cake."

"Of course, I used some to make the chicken feathers stick on me," laughed Uncle Wiggily. "As for the Bob Cat, he had fooled the Bob Cat. But if there isn't enough in the beans I'll get more."

"There will be plenty," said the uskrat lady housekeeper. And she was just going to get the beans ready to bake when the telephone rang in the hollow stump bungalow.

"Hello! Hello!" answered Uncle Wiggily. Then when he had listened a moment he said: "They want you, Nurse Jane!"

"Yes, what is it?" asked the uskrat lady over the telephone.

"Yes, you, is Mrs. Wibblywobble. Yes—yes—of course! That's too bad! I'll be right over—yes—of course—oh, I'm sure you do—oh, yes, indeed! Um—yes—yes—I'll be right over."

"What's all about?" asked Nurse Jane Wiggily, for, of course, he could only hear what Nurse Jane said.

"Oh, that poor Mrs. Wibblywobble, the duck lady," said Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. "She spilled some hot water on her foot as she was boiling eggs for Jimmie's breakfast. And she wants to know if I could come over and help her with the housework until she can send for her sister, Mrs. Quack-Quack, to come and stay with her."

"Run right along," said kind Uncle Wiggily. "We must always help those in trouble."

"But what about the baked beans?" asked Nurse Jane.

"They will wait when you get back," said Uncle Wiggily. "But when Nurse Jane had gone over to help Mrs. Wibblywobble, the bunny rabbit thought to himself: 'Till I bake the beans myself. There are molasses enough, she said, and I know where she keeps the beans. I'll bake them myself.'"

Uncle Wiggily got the dried beans from the pantry. He put a big pan of them in the oven, just as they were, and poured some molasses over them. Then he put a pan of dried beans in the hot oven, and sat down to wait for them to bake.

Soon a queer smell filled the kitchen.

"That must be the molasses gone baking," thought the bunny. "If I of a sudden he heard a noise at the door. 'Dear me! I hope that's Nurse Jane coming back soon,'" he said to himself. "The surprise isn't ready yet. The beans are done."

He opened the door and looked out. "Now for some ears to nibble!" he thought. "The Fox. Then he began to sniff and sniff. 'What's that I smell?'" he asked.

"Baked beans!" answered Uncle Wiggily. "Maybe Mr. Fox, if you ate some of my molasses baked beans you wouldn't want to nibble my ears."

"Let me see first," barked the fox. He opened the door and looked in. "A sudden, there were a lot of loud, bang-bang noises and he shot a lot of the hard, molasses beans right in the face of the fox. They had burst and exploded, for Uncle Wiggily forgot to soak them in water. As he baked them, as he should have done.

"Oh, baked beans! Oh, wow! molasses beans, I call them!" howled the fox. "Oh, double wow!" he said as more beans flew out and hit him on the nose. Then he ran away and didn't come back that day.

"Ha! Ha!" chuckled Uncle Wiggily, when Nurse Jane came home and cleaned up the baked beans. And told him he should have soaked them in water. "Ha! Ha! Well, I surprised the fox, anyhow!"

"Indeed, you did!" chuckled Nurse Jane. "And it served him right, too!"

"If the gold fish doesn't throw water on the fire stove, it will make it catch on fire. I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the Wolf."

Two-Fisted Fate

TODAY'S SHORT STORY BY Ad Schuster

FATE had played some queer tricks on Dan Moyer since the day when he had sold nails in Cunningham's hardware store in this very port Capetown. He had been arranged to be sent into Cunningham's shoes, marry Maizie and be a merchant—and then Cunningham hired Lee Sample as bookkeeper. Sample had big city ways and an insinuating manner. Gradually he won the regard of Cunningham and Maizie. Dan held his tongue. If he were to tell them, he thought, he did not want to ruin his future. He was jealous. Maybe they would be right. As the days went on he felt his place being taken over by the other. Then Lee accused him of what he called "careless practices" in recording sales and Cunningham backed up the bookkeeper. That night Dan Moyer went to sea.

Standing on the same wharf now, once again at his feet, the sailor wondered what he would do next. He had not meant to return to Capetown and here he was, broke. He would never before he asked.

In the dusk a large man approached and a square jaw was thrust almost in the boy's face. "The Messenger," the man asked, "will you hurry then?" Dan followed. He would risk anything to get out of Capetown.

Dan was shown to a bunk in the charthouse, a tiny place where he might sleep by dozing the swinging kerosene lamp. He knew he was on a whaler and riding as a passenger. The crew came aboard laughing and singing, full of the liquor of the "Iron."

"If they will only set under way," Dan thought, "before the real passenger shows up, I will sail. They were waiting for the cook, someone said, for Gray Coffman who was always late."

Coffman came aboard, sinking at the top of his voice, the plank was raised and the engine started to turn. Dan Moyer walked the deck and gazed at the scene before him. The captain, the big man who had met him on the wharf, was standing in front of the grinning Coffman.

"Make me late, will you?" he said quietly and the man continued with his stupid grinning. Dan sensed the situation from the silent seamen who watched, fascinated.

Without changing the expression on his heavy face the captain shot his fist from the shoulder catching the cook on the chin. A crack followed by the duller sound of body hitting deck, finished the scene.

"Well," the captain looked at Dan, "maybe you thought you were in for something."

He walked away.

The engines were painting below when Dan, awakened, in the bows, a crew were tending the harpoon gun while the cap-faces. Then could be seen the lengthening line and the harpoon, like a knife in cheese, slipped into the glistening whale. Came a mighty thrashing of water. Foam was stretched with blood and then the lifeless catch rode easily beside the ship. It was over.

"Now, you," the captain's jaw was in Dan's face again, "maybe it was agreed I take you to another port? Well, I didn't know we would see a whale so soon. He doubled his fist and looked at it meaningly. 'We go back to Capetown, whether you like it or not.'"

Back in Capetown Ed went to the "Sailor's Rest," where he sat in front of a fire kept burning by an organization dear to the hearts of mariners, and read the Capetown paper. There he read the answer to his puzzling adventure, the latest trick of fate. Lee Sample had been arrested at the docks with a box containing money belonging to Cunningham. It was thought he had intended to take passage on one of the whalers which had, for some reason, sailed without him. "Wasn't old Cunningham he surprised?" Dan thought. "When I show up in the morning and ask for the old job, maybe he's turned a whole lot of money."

SINGLENES OF AIM.

The Jack-of-all-trades idea is discounted more than ever. Occasionally there are ten-talented men like Michael Angelo, who was architect, poet, painter, sculptor and excellent in each. But the average man if he would succeed must say: "This one thing I do."

To find the thing we can do best, the task that entitles our enthusiasm, and then buckle to with all our energy, this is the high road to achievement. Of course it means cutting out many agreeable things, not bad in themselves, which dissipate energy. To aim at one thing, read about it, talk about it, dream about it, associate with the people who are past-masters of the chosen vocation, is the formula that wins.

Concentration and hard work are the gray angels of success. The solid men in business and the professions are men of the single aim. The Cunard Company has had such an enviable record because the founder of that line started out to build the best steamship afloat.

Mayo, the hammer maker, was showing a visitor through his factory. "Yes," he said, "I have made hammers now for more than a generation." "Well then you ought to be able to make a pretty good hammer by this time."

"No, sir, was the answer. 'I never make a pretty good hammer. I make the best hammers in the United States.'"

Whether we make ships, shoes or pianos, write poems, briefs or news stories we can at least aim to do one thing well.

Old-Fashioned Folks

Not long ago—
I thought to go—
Back where the past was calling me—
To go where always there had lived—
Old-fashioned folks—
And there to lie beneath a tree—
That shaded me when I was young—
And full of dreams—
I wanted just to cuddle down—
In nature's nest—
And feel the soft wind in my hair—
That oft caressed—
Before the world had beckoned me—
And so I took a country road—
Where cottonwoods looked down on me—
And seemed to say—"Well, look who's here—
The little lad who went away—
So long ago—
But now his hair that was so dark—
Is white as snow—
And there are shadows in his eyes—
Where was the glow—
The world has sad mis-used him—
And honest faces in the fields—
Turned at my coming down the road—
And nodded pleasantly—
The sons of those that I had known—
Once on a time—
And when I reached a roadside lane—
Down through its cooling depths I walked—
Unto a door that opened wide—
And faces burnt with scalding tears—
Peered with delight—
And strong arms held me once again—
In close embrace—
Like once they held me as a boy—
And while I lingered in a trance—
Among these quaint old-fashioned folks—
No single thing was left undone—
If it would make my staying longer—
For they were glad that I had come—
And very kind—
And seemed so happy in the doing—
But when I answered duty's call—
And left them at the long lane's end—
There was a queer hurt in my throat—
Back in the city's surging mob—
Where jostling multitudes pushed by—
With faces blank—not knowing me nor caring—
I trudge each day beneath my load—
I hear harsh voices—anger raised—
And cursing men surge all around me—
In gain's fierce strife—
And wonder if I had again—
To live my life—
Would I hold close to scenes like this—
Or choose the simple-minded bliss—
That comes to those beyond my ken—
Old-fashioned folks.

The Boliver promised Raggedy Andy and the Knight that just as soon as he caught his breath he would return and eat them up, but he didn't.

frightened Knight by saying, "Do not be frightened! The Boliver can never catch his breath as long as he is running, for the harder he runs the more he loses his breath! And besides, maybe he will forget all about us if he runs far enough!"

"If he does!" the Knight said as he shook his knees together so hard he could scarcely stand up. Maybe we had better run, Raggedy Andy!

"Pooh!" Raggedy Andy replied. "It is the first time I have ever seen a Boliver, but I shall run from him! That would show him that I was afraid!"

"Oh, dear!" the Knight cried as he sat down on a log, "here comes the Boliver again! Now we are sure to be eaten!"

Sure enough, here came the Boliver "bakey spiky" right up to Raggedy Andy and the Knight. "You fooled me!" the Boliver howled. "You told me I would have to hurry to catch my breath and the farther I run the more I lose my breath and I'll bet a nickel you know it all the time!" And the Boliver sat on the log beside the Knight and puffed and puffed until he caught his breath.

"See there!" he said. "Now I've caught my breath I shall eat you up, one by one!"

make any difference to me. You can draw straws to see which one I eat first!"

"I don't want to play!" the Knight said. "I've got King's ex!"

"King's ex?" the Boliver asked. "King's ex doesn't count, and because we are not playing any way! Do you think it's a game when a Boliver like me-eats you?"

"I should say not!" the Boliver answered himself. "Get two straws and draw and the one who gets the shortest straw will be eaten first!" The Boliver crossed his legs and shook this into the straw until it began to thicken, but do not boil. Garnish with chopped or sliced truffles. Add salt, nutmeg and cayenne pepper to taste.

Raggedy Andy prepared two straws and said to the Boliver, "Here are the two straws, Mister Boliver. The one who gets the shortest one gets eaten first, didn't you say?"

"Hurry and draw, I'm getting hungrier every minute!" so Raggedy Andy held out the straws for the Knight to draw and when the Knight had drawn one the Boliver cried, "Now let me see which is the shortest!" and he was handed the straws.

The Boliver sat and scratched his head when he compared the straws. "They are both the shortest, either of us may be eaten first!"

Friday. This was the last school day of the week, which made me and Jubilee feel pretty good when I was letting him down this morning by the rope in his teeth. The only thing about it was that it made it one day nearer to Valentine's day and I have not got any more valentine money that a rabbit.

It was cold. When I was eating breakfast my grandfather said this is the most open winter we have had for 35 years. I guess that it what makes it so cold. It is because it is open. I wish someone would come along and close it. I am about ready to go for a swim, but if I was to dive off the breakfast water now I would break my face. It is funny that cold can make water so hard it will break a fella's face.

My grandfather was saying at breakfast that if air is compressed and made very cold it is like water, but it is so cold that if a kettle of it is put on a cake of ice the ice is so much warmer that it makes the air boil. He said if a beefsteak is dipped into the liquid air it freezes so hard that when it is taken out and hit it will ring like a bell. My mother told me to like along to school just then, so I had to leave the table. I guess she does not think it is good for a little boy to hear such a fire. She does not know how tough I am.

I thought I would go over and tell Miss Parmer good morning and maybe she would say something about something I wanted to know, but a saw old man Cunningham's board on his fence so I went over and me and Jubilee good watching him. I asked him if he was going to send any valentines this year, and he said he wasn't. I thought maybe if I asked him that he would ask me if I was, and then I would tell him that I would like to but that I did not have any chink to buy one with, and then maybe he would let me finish writing the board on the fence and would pay me for it. But he finished nailing it on himself and went in the house.

self and went in the house, and by that time it was school time, so me and Jubilee had to hustle. After school we all went down to the basement to see Mush and he let us see his cut thumb and finger. He is going to lose his finger nail all right. He is quite proud of it. His wife was scrubbing the floor and she got up and came to look at the sore finger. But after she had looked at it she stepped backwards onto the soap and done a highland fling and got down on the wet part of the floor. It made her so mad she got up and threw the pail of water all over Mush and him and me and stuck together in the door getting out. When we were safe I said to him that I could not understand men marrying the kind of women they do. And he said they are not that kind all after they are married. Marriage certainly ruins women. But Younis never be like that.

I pulled Jubilee up and went to bed early. It was my father thought of it first. Tomorrow—Thomas Aristides and Jubilee Go Ice Boating.

UNIVERSITIES OF THE MIDDLE AGES.

Perhaps some day you will go to college. I hope so. Universities help our minds to grow. I don't do the shaving. Their visits with every boy and every girl could have the joy and profit of college life.

In the Middle Ages there were universities, but of course they differed in many ways from those of today. The most famous university was at Paris. Thousands of students gathered there, coming from Italy, Germany and England, as well as from France. In Germany, a great university was located at Cologne.

of Paris. Some students were as young as 12 or 13. Others were old enough to have beards on their faces.

At Oxford, the barbers had a rule that each student should pay a penny a shave. An English penny is worth about two cents in American money. That seems a low price, when we think of what barbers charge nowadays.

Students often became angry with the way things were run at the universities. Then they were likely to leave town by the hundreds. Perhaps they would start a new university elsewhere.

The great university at Cambridge, England, is said to have been set up by Oxford students and teachers who left the older school in anger.

OAKS PURCHASE OUTFIELDER Le BOURVEAU OF THE PHILLIES

TED CATHER AND JACK KNIGHT SIGN 1923 CONTRACTS WITH THE LOCAL BASEBALL CLUB

Oaks Pay Big Price to Get Fly Chaser

Le Bourveau Wires That He Is Glad to Return to the Local Club.

By EDDIE MURPHY.

Dawitt (Liver). Bourveau, speedy young outfielder, who was with the Oaks in the spring of 1919 and was farmed out to the Peoria club in the Three Eye League and had such a big season in fielding and hitting that he was picked up by the Philadelphia Nationals with whom he remained since, is to be an Oak the coming season. For more than a month the owners of the Oakland club have been looking for Le Bourveau. Garry Coleman of the Cincinnati Reds put the deal through for the Oaks. The Oaks knew that there was a chance to get him and as the Reds owned a player in the Pinelli deal Cal Boring requested that Hermann work on the deal. Hermann sent a check as part payment for Pinelli the other day, but the Oakland boss sent it back and told Hermann to use it in buying Le Bourveau and that he would forward a check to cover whatever more had to be paid.

From Peoria Le Bourveau went to Philadelphia and finished the 1919 season. He was the sensation of the Three Eye League. He batted .329 and was the leading runner. He played in about half the games for the Phillies in 1922 and hit .287. In 1921 he hit .286 in nearly one hundred games, and last season he hit .251, but did not play very much. He batted left-handed and throws right-handed and is rated one of the fastest outfielders in the major leagues. He is just 25 years of age, so should have plenty of good baseball left in him yet.

Upon learning that the Oaks were looking for him Le Bourveau sent a wire to the local club to say he is pleased to have another opportunity to play in the Oakland league and be with the Oaks. He would rather play in the Coast League regularly than to serve in the utility role in the majors.

Le Bourveau makes the third left-handed hitting outfielder the Oaks have. The other fly chasers are Claude Cooper and Denny Wille, left-handers, and Frank Wetzel, right-hander.

KNIGHT, CATHER SIGN.

John W. Knight and Ted Cather, a pair of veteran Oaks, are the latest to affix their names to 1923 contracts and pass them over to Secretary Herbert McFarlin so that he may send them off to John Farrell. Marty McGaffigan, Mervin Smith or any of the other infielders with the Oaks are going to have a tough time competing with this pair of veterans. At least, that is what they have to say. Knight, who has been spending his winter hours working as a coach in San Francisco, is telling all his friends that he will again be holding down a regular job on the local club. If Jack can come back with the same zip in his fielding and power in his hitting as he showed at the start of the 1922 campaign, and also in 1921, he will fit in very nicely in some one of the infield jobs.

HAND GAINS STRENGTH.

He had the misfortune shortly after the start of last season to have a finger on his left hand amputated, and the operation left the left hand and arm so weak that he was unable to grip a bat properly. That alone worried Knight, and he was not as useful to the local club as he would have been had he not been treated with a knife. However, Knight has been playing golf on Sundays and he spent the last one at Boyes Springs. He says he knows he will be able to grip the bat the coming season like of old and he again be breaking up many a ball game. This is good news for the local fans, as Jack is a terror to the opposing pitchers when hitting as he should. Knight will probably try for the second or third base job, as the Howard brothers have practically decided to let Ray Brubaker go out after the shortstop job again.

THE DUBVILLE FOURSOME

Wheeler Dell Up to Usual Spring Trick

He Has Not Signed, But His Actions Speak Louder Than Words.

Wheeler Dell, giant right-hander of the Vernon Club, or rather one of several clubs, on the Tiger twirling staff, is at usual debating his contract for the coming season. Wheeler isn't and never has been what is known as a bona fide hold-out. But he believes in considering things. He is not what one would term a pre-emptive strike when it comes to precipitating his fast on across the plate. It would not be a normal spring if Mr. Dell didn't dissent from the contract which is mailed him. But the opening day either finds him out there on the mound, or he signs, or he goes to sea.

Recently, disguised in overalls and a weather beaten cap, Mr. Dell was found digging holes as a member of a gang of telephone linemen. He is reported to be digging for oil he believed that he was digging for nickels. Apparently they are going to have only pay phones on that particular line.

All of which means that Wheeler has eschewed winter baseball. Last winter Wheeler won something like fifteen games of winter baseball. He has a hunch that some of those fifteen may have been subtracted from games which he might otherwise have won the following summer. There are so many games in a good right arm, or left arm, or both, but hardly up to his knuckles. Apparently they are going to have only pay phones on that particular line.

Last season Dell was in forty-nine games. He won twenty-three, while dropping seventeen. Far from being a hard worker, he is again breaking up many a ball game. This is good news for the local fans, as Jack is a terror to the opposing pitchers when hitting as he should. Knight will probably try for the second or third base job, as the Howard brothers have practically decided to let Ray Brubaker go out after the shortstop job again.

M. J. B. Team Will Oppose Local College

St. Mary's Team Lines Up Strong for Coming Season, Says Guisto.

The M. J. B. baseball team will offer the opposition to Louis Guisto's Saint Mary's Varsity at the Oakland campus on Saturday afternoon. The Saints have started their season with a bang and seem to have the class and fight to carry them through their lengthy and strenuous schedule. Getting off to a much faster start than last season's Varsity, the Oakland collegians have won their three starts, defeating leaders in the San Francisco Mid-Winter league and in the league sponsored by The Oakland TRIBUNE.

The M. J. B.'s will most likely give the Saints plenty of trouble, as Steagmeyer is scheduled to pitch for the Coffee team. When that big twirler is right he is practically invincible. Against a strong Guisto will use either Green or Snow, with the odds in favor of the latter. Snow is trying his luck at pitching this season, as Guisto is well fortified with catchers, which was Snow's position on the 1919 Varsity.

Guisto believes that he can develop Snow, as last season he had great success in converting Lindholm and Oeschger from infielders into his first string twirlers. If Snow comes through and if McVey's control, the Saints will be strengthened in the pitching line, for Lindholm and Maddock should be consistent winners, with Green and Corriere also in line to take their regular turns in the box.

Outside of the pitching staff the only thing that is worrying Guisto is where to play George White, substitute first baseman on last year's Varsity. White is too good a hitter to leave on the bench, for he can hit over the .300 mark in college competition, yet there is little possibility that he will be a young Gardner at first base, if that young man continues his present gait in hitting and fielding.

Guisto was considerably moving Gardner to second and using White at first, but "Ducks" Guisto has shown such improvement in fielding and at bat that Guisto is loathe to break up a winning combination. This leaves right field as the only place where White might fit in and should White show aptitude in gathering in flies there is a chance that he may temporarily at least, displace Tom Kelly as guardian of the right field patch.

Semi-pros Honor Big League Stars With Big Banquet

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 8.—More than 600 persons, including representatives of nearly all sports, attended a banquet here last night in honor of Bobby Meusel of the New York American League baseball club and Johnny Rawlings and Emil Meusel of the New York National League club, Los Angeles players who have figured in world's series games for two years. The banquet was given by the combined semi-professional baseball clubs of Southern California.

Frank L. Chance, manager of the Boston Americans, and Herb Hunter, who managed an all-star baseball squad which recently toured the Orient, sat at a table with the Meusels and Rawlings. The speakers included District Attorney Thomas Lee Woolwine of Los Angeles, Attorney Joseph Scott, Colonel J. P. Carter, formerly collector of customs at Los Angeles, and Judge Paul J. McCormick of the superior court, president of the Southern California Baseball Managers' Association.

More than a dozen major league and former major league players were present. William H. McCarty, president of the Pacific Coast league, sent a telegram earlier in the evening stating that he was unable to attend because of business at San Francisco.

Bill Mariott Would Like to Remain Here

Walter Keeley May Be Sold to the Senators by Brooklyn.

MARIOTT IS WAITING.

William Mariott, who was with the Oaks last season, regrets more than ever that he has to leave California. The time is drawing near when Bill will have to pack his grip and shift somewhere else. He says he will not report to Mobile, and would like to land in the American Association unless some club in the Coast League gets him. Bill says if he could buy his release from Mobile that he would have no trouble landing a job in this league. He claims there are two clubs who want him, and is hoping that he gets the chance to show the Coast League fans that he is really a better player than he shows credit season to be although he did pretty well considering that he broke an ankle and was out for a couple of months, and also that the local club was never intact. It will be the American Association, Coast League or the Chicago semi-pro for Mariott. He has been made a good offer to play semi-pro ball around Chicago.

KEELEY FOR SENATORS?

Now that Walter Keeley, shortstop for the Durant Motors in The TRIBUNE Midwinter League, has been reinstated by Commissioner Landis, and he is still the property of the Brooklyn club in the National League, the question is, will Keeley become a member of the Sacramento club in the Coast League? Just before the war between the majors and minors started and Keeley was put on the ineligible list, word was received here that Keeley would be turned over to Charley Pick and company. Keeley is a great fielder and has improved in his hitting the last couple of years, and the chances are that Charley Ebbett will have him report to the Dodgers' training camp so he can look him over before taking any steps to farm him.

"Casey" Leaders to Meet Tail End Clubs

A. A. F. Is Planning Two Major Events

Basketball Finals to Be Held at Auditorium; Cross-Country Feb. 22.

Under the direction of W. A. Kearns of the Oakland Y. M. C. A. plans are being made for two of the biggest athletic events of the year under the auspices of the National California Amateur Athletic federation. The first of these will be in the concluding championship games of the annual federation basketball tournament, to be held at the Municipal Auditorium on dates yet to be named by the committee in charge.

The second major event of the federation to be held in this section is the first annual cross-country race to be run over the Berkeley hills on the morning of Washington's birthday. These two events will go far toward making evening at the local Eastbay play even a more prominent part than they have during the last twelve months.

PLAY IN ALL CITIES.

Under the general supervision of the federation basketball leagues have been conducted in various cities of northern California since the second week in January, play in which is now nearing a conclusion. In Oakland the Eastbay basketball team, boasting five divisions of 120 pound, 130 pound, 145 pound and unlimited weights, has been going full blast for four weeks with another week of play yet to be held. The first of these division championships in the Eastbay league will be entered in the federation finals at the Auditorium against the winners from Berkeley, Stockton, San Francisco, San Jose, Sacramento and Fresno. And in all the federation tournament will represent the pick of some 240 odd basketball teams throughout the state, the greatest tournament of its kind ever held.

MEET TUESDAY NIGHT.

The federation has scheduled its Tuesday monthly meeting for next Tuesday evening at the Y. M. C. A. hall at 8 o'clock, at which time President W. M. Dennis will outline plans for the coming spring months of athletics which the federation will conduct, including the annual track championships and swimming program.

The Berkeley division of the federation has been given complete charge of the annual cross-country race and Chairman George Hefelt is handling all entries at the city hall in Berkeley, entries to close February 15.

The race will be held over a five mile course on the Tunnel road to the front street indicating the county line of Contra Costa county, and return to the start. The course will be mapped out next week and will be available for runners who desire to cover the ground before the race.

VISTA BATTERIES.

The Vista Batteries made a clean sweep of their series in the S. F. & Suburban league this week against the S. F. club, none of the games being close. Cherry led the field with 595 for high series of the Vista team while Nichols usually high, took second.

BOWLING

The Ambrose Tailors continued at a winning clip this week in the Merchants' Bowling league, taking the odd game and three points in their match with the Marchant Calculating Machine Company. The Emeryville Hardware and Tool five, right behind the leaders, took the first two games by wide margins, and likewise won three points.

The Fruitvale W. O. W. made a clean sweep and froze out the Union Leo team, while Bruenners proved too much for the Key System in the first two games, taking three points. High individual honors went to Reasner of the Fruitvale W. O. W. with a 648 series, 238 being his high game. Supposed Cancer and Tuberculosis of the Bone. A Case Which Modern, Occidental, Scientific Methods Failed

Oakland, Cal., Jan. 24, 1923.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

For about four years, my daughter, Virginia, had a very sore growth on her thigh, which extended over an area four inches wide and six inches long. Her agony was so great that she was obliged to quit school and remain at home. For two years, we tried the methods of physicians who treated her for bone diseases, and gave her electric treatments, but she did not improve.

Then I took her to a San Francisco bone specialist, who took many X-ray pictures of the growth. He pronounced it "Cancer of the Bone." He treated her for Cancer for some time without avail, after which he treated her for Tuberculosis of the Bone. With all these experiments, my daughter's suffering still increased. After this, I took her to a cancer doctor who treated her at his institution, for inflammation of the blood and of the knee, for five months, but her condition was unimproved.

A friend of ours, who had been cured of his sores by the FONG WAN HERB SPECIALIST, urged me to take her to him. My daughter commenced with his herb treatments, she weighed only 51 pounds. She had not gained any weight during all those years of terrible suffering. After Fong Wan had given her the herbs to drink, herbs to wash with, and herb powder to sprinkle on the sore for three months, she had gained 15 pounds. Now she weighs 76 pounds. The growth has completely disappeared, and the sore place is not only entirely healed but new skin has grown over it. She attended school this month, on Jan. 22, 1923, for the first time in years.

We wonder why our physicians and cancer specialist were unable to save my daughter from those long years of agony, and why they should not learn the methods of the FONG WAN HERB SPECIALIST in relieving suffering. We also wonder why our modern, Occidental, scientific methods did not succeed. I am giving this testimonial to express our happiness because of our daughter's restoration to health, and to voice our gratitude to the FONG WAN HERB SPECIALIST. I hope it may be of benefit in guiding other sufferers. Anyone wishing further details in regard to this case, right here in Oakland, may ask me and I will gladly furnish them.

hair should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Many soaps and prepared champoos are so harsh that they strip the hair of its natural oils and leave it dry and brittle. This dries the hair, makes the hair brittle, and causes it to fall out.
 The best thing for steady use is Mustisil coconut oil shampoo which is pure and greaseless, and is better than anything else I can use.
 Two or three tablespoons of Mustisil and a cup of glass with a little warm water is sufficient to wash the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub the Mustisil into the hair. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily with water.
 Mustisil is a very fine article of toilet, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. It cleans the hair and scalp, and the hair dries quickly and evenly. It leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage. You can get Mustisil coconut oil shampoo at any pharmacist, it is very cheap, and a few ounces supply every member of the family.
